Punxsutawney Phil From Pg. 1

King Phillip, or Punxsutawney Phil, as he is affectionately known in the area, "The world's only true weather prognosticating ground hog", surfaced to give his predication on his day of glory, Groung Hog's Day. This day is an annual event in the town of Punxsutawney, Pa., a town of about 8,800 people located on the western edge of Jefferson County.

This event is a gala affair, with visiting dignitaries from all over the state; thus making Groung Hog's Day the probable high point in the town's yearly calender.

The actual celebration of Ground Hog's Day dates back to the early settling of the United States. Immigrants from Great Britian and Germany brought this custom with them from their homelands (where the badger is the traditional symbol) and adapted

Childhood

The Early Childhood Development Program at Capitol recently won approval for certification of nursery and kindergarten teachers. The State Board of Private Academic Schools, which is part of the Department of Education, granted approval on Fri., Jan. 21, 1977.

According to M.E. Mumma, instructor of the Early Childhood Education Program here, "many Elementary Education students had expressed the desire for certification as teachers in private nursery school and kindergarden settings." Because of the recent approval Capitol Campus, students and other interested persons will be able to obtain this certification.

The Early Childhood Education Program runs a Child Development Center, in which Capitol students gain experience through a supervised field practicum. This field practicum is part of the required course work for this newly approved certification.

The Child Development Center is open to children three to five years of age, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.
