Some recent new albums, rated: *excellent, good, 50/50, *a waste of time.

Songs of Kristofferson - Kris Kristofferson (Monument Records).

Rating:  - Mr. K is currently sharing the crest of a popularity wave with a certain Ms. S, thanks to a movie, "A Star Is Born". For both new and old fans, this collection presents every song you ever wanted to hear by Mr. K on one piece of vinyl. Found here are many classic Kristofferson-penned standards sung in characteristic nasal drawl, making this album predestined to be a popular bestseller.

Bareback - Richard Torrance (Capitol Records).

Rating:  - A fine rock 'n' roll voice, good playing, and a mixed bag of electric rockers and slow ballads make this a better than average collection of tunes. Torrance has working behind him a fine assemblage of musicians, including Little Feat keyboardist Bill Payne.

Works, Volume one - Emerson, Lake, and Palmer (Atlantic Records).

Rating: *½ - The first studio album in some three years, this two-record set features one side each to the solo pursuits of respective members, and the remaining side to putting it all together as a band. Outstanding are Keith Emerson's full-blown piano concerto, complete with London Symphony Orchestra; various usages of classical influences, such as Bernstein in "Pirates"; adaptations of classical material; and Greg Lake's lushly romantic arrangements and songs. One major criticism, however, is that I find ELP's treatment of Copland's "Fanfare" rather barbaric, considering the majestic piece of music they took upon themselves to butcher.

Festival - Santana (Columbia Records).

Rating:  - The old fire lives on, but the spirit is gone. This is a rather sad and predictable album, but nevertheless is Carlos Santana's best effort in years, because it attempts to be convincing.

Islands - The Band (Capitol Records).

Rating: * - A fine overall effort marks the last album from The Band. Although not quite up to the standards of their finest work, great musicianship combined with a good selection of new material by Robbie Robertson make "Islands" an enjoyable listening enacting and enforcing such laws as are deemed necessary to the promotion of the welfare of the students (such as arming our campus police with guns), yet only about 8% of the student body turn up for its elections, executive offices are contested unopposed, and many senatorial seats are uncontested.

This Time It's For Real - Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes (Epic Records).

Rating: ½ - Even though three new Springsteen songs are present, this record is still disappointing. Bad production, a muddy mix, and an attempt at a Spector mood that failed all conspire to weaken the music.

After the promise of their debut album last year, this, the group's second, is a step backwards. However, some cuts rise above the clumsy production, and attempt to maintain their energy levels. In the right hands, this album could have been a gem.

Burnin' Sky - Bad Company (Swan Song Records).

Rating: *½ - This album should have been called "Burnin' Out". Every beat, riff, and chord sounds overworked and cliched. Paul Rodgers has become totally predictable in his writing and phrasing of vocals. Lack of imagination and vitality breed ennui.

I shall end this letter with a reminder to whom it may concern that every thing in nature, according to the second law of Thermodynamics, tends to proceed to a state of greater molecular disorder. The more things can go wrong, the more they will.

I have not accused anyone. I have only made comments and asked questions.
