

New Faculty Council Set For Next Year

By Brian McDonough

Six new members of the faculty council were elected last week, according to Mary Becky, business office official. The members elected for two years are: Mark Dorfman, Michael Grella, Yvonne Milspaw, Duane Shuttlesworth, and Jacob Susskind. Jacob Derot was also elected to fulfill the unexpired one year term of Michael Barton, who is going on a leave of absence.

On May 25 the council elected their new officials - Rupe Chisholm chairperson, Duane Shuttlesworth vice-chairperson, and Jacob Susskind secretary.

In an interview with the new leader of the Faculty Council, Dr. Chisholm said that the council is still in the process of identifying goals and programs for the coming year.

One of the programs that the council will continue to work on is a Board of Advisors for Capitol. The Board, which will consist of persons from the local area, will be a two-way channel of communication between the campus and the surrounding community. The council will continue to work with the administration on this proposal.

Dr. Chisholm also mentioned that the faculty, administration, and Capitol as a whole would improve if the students would get together on issues that concern them and push more for their ideas.

Also two young people were hit by a car as they were walking home on the new bridge over the expressway down by the Olmsted Plaza.

According to Patrolman Donbach of the Lower Swatara Police Department, Leo Gite, 13, of Middletown, and Cheryl Shultz, 12 of Highspire, were both hit by Robert J. Mick, 20, of Steelton, who was charged with reckless driving and underage drinking as he headed west at 8:55 p.m.

Donbach said, though, that Mick was not charged with driving under the influence.

Leo Gite was released from the hospital, but Cheryl Shultz is still hospitalized in satisfactory condition, Donbach said.

Additions To Programming

Two months ago, WZAP, the radio station for Capitol Campus, held a contest to change its call letters. Out of the many entries, the staff and

Besides changing the call letters, additions to the programming will take place Fall Term '77. Some of these include a 15 minute discussion about the creation of Star Trek, by its creator Gene Roddenberry, Is Graduate School Necessary?, The Job Market- Where's The Action? and Joe Paterno, The Man Behind The Team.

New Signs Ripped Off

By Robin Platts

On April 20, there were five new additions to Capitol Campus in the form of highway signs. These signs are the result of a ten year attempt beginning with Dr. Richard H. Heindel, soon after the campus opened its doors.

Two and a half years ago, Francine Z. Taylor, the Public Information Officer for the campus, began to negotiate with the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) to have the signs put up. Finally, after several attempts, the signs at a cost of $300.00 a piece were put up in April. Three days later a sign on Route 230 disappeared.

Due to the time and expense involved, if the person/persons who removed the sign would return it to the Public Information Office anytime, no questions will be asked. The university is not looking to reprimand anyone, but would like the sign returned.

"These signs show the growth of the campus and add pride for all of us, because they truly put us on the map," said Ms. Taylor.

The signs are invaluable for persons trying to find the campus. They aid new students, parents, guest lecturers, and continuing education participants to find the campus.

Coming Attractions

By Robin Platts

The Seminar in American Studies class of Dr. John Patterson will present two plays dealing with labor movements and women's suffrage in the early twentieth century. The plays, "A Suffragette Baby" and "The Strike or Under the Shadow of a Crime" will be presented Mon., June 6, at 12:15 p.m. and again Wed., June 8, at 8:00 p.m. in the campus auditorium.

"A Suffragette Baby" was written in 1912 by Alice Thompson. The play deals with five suffragettes who live in a boardinghouse. Four of the women secretly "adopt" a baby girl and pay the Irish landlady to look after her. Thompson concerns herself with the conflict between a public commitment made to the women's right-to-vote movement and feelings toward a family and babies. While Ms. Thompson was not sympathetic to the suffragette movement, the class will point out ethnic stereotypes and other biases of the author following the production.

The second play, "The Strike or Under the Shadow of a Crime," has an anti-labor theme. The idea that opportunity really does exist for an individual through their own incentive rather than through that of a large group. The author attempts to add the moral that Man should improve himself, rather than dwell on the corporate race.

Included along with the plays are other multi-media presentations of slides, songs, and working conditions of the late nineteenth century suffragette and laborer.

Both performances are free of charge and open to the public.
