

Broken Doors

The university budget deficit has been felt by the residents of Church Hall. In response to last weeks letter to the editor about the broken door on the north end of the building, we got this picture of the coat hanger which is doubling as a door handle.

According to one university employee the delay is due to the inability to get a new door handle until the school allocates the money to order it.

The employee said it could be several weeks before it is fixed.
