

Varsity Soccer Season Looks Hopeful

By Pete Faith

The Capitol Campus Soccer Team has already started practicing for the Fall season and is still looking for new players. The team enjoyed it's first winning season last year with an 8-6 record and is looking forward to another fine year.

This is the first season that Capitol Campus Soccer will be a Varsity sport. The team also has a new coach, John Harris, who has played on the Capitol Campus Team for many years.

If anyone is interested in joining the team, practices are every weeknight at 7:30 on the soccer field behind the Multi-Purpose Building. Practices and games are played under the lights.

The first game is Tuesday, Sept. 26 at 7:30 on the Capitol Campus Field. A big crowd is expected, so get there early.

NOSE TO THE GRINDSTONE.

Co-Op Program Receives Grant

MIDDLETOWN--For the fourth consecutive year the Co-operative Education Program (Co-Op) at Penn State Capitol Campus received a federal grant from the United States Office of Education.

The purpose of the $40,000 grant is to continue to develop the Co-Op program in conjunction with federal guidelines. "The grant has enabled us to hire a full-time cooperative education specialist to develop Co-Op positions," explained Peg O'Hara, coordinator, career planning and placement at Capitol, and director of the Co-Op program.

The Co-Op program was initiated during the summer term of 1975. It allowed students the opportunity of alternating six months of career-related experience with six months of school. Since that time the program has extended itself to include a parallel program where students may go to school in the morning and work in the afternoon. A normal two year course takes two and one half years to complete.

Electrical Design Engineering Technology was the first program emphasized under Co-Op education. However, the Program has now expanded into other engineering fields, social science and business. Ms. O'Hara also pointed out that the graduate program in master's of public administration will be included for the first time. These students will work for federal government agencies.

According to Robert H. Hamill, career planning and placement specialist at Capitol, "Private business and industry along with federal government agencies employ the Co-Op student. Benefits to the employer include the opportunity to complete special projects and/or provide assistance to regular employees. At the same time, the employer can identify and evaluate Co-Op employees for potential, permanent positions without making firm commitments for regular, continuing employment."

The Capitol Campus Co-operative Education program anticipates a doubling in the number of students enrolled in the Co-Op plan within the next six months to a year.

"The Co-Op program provides students with the exposure to the world of work. Significantly, the work experience is career-related and thus becomes an extension of the students' classroom learning experience. That kind of experience frequently leads to increased employability upon the students' graduation," concluded Ms. O'Hara.

Radio - License Course Offered

MIDDLETOWN-A Radio License Course (FCC Third Class) will be offered by the Office of Continuing Education at Penn State-Capitol Campus. The course will begin Tues., Sept. 26 from 6:00 to 9:00 pm and will continue for ten weeks.

This license is a prerequisite for all types of positions in the broadcasting industry. Positions include: staff announcers, d.j.'s, newscasters, sportscasters, and many others. Upon passing the FCC examination, the applicant will hold a valid Third Class Radiotelephone License with a Broadcast Endorsement. Future classes for a second and first class license will be held in January and March respectively.
