State-administered student aid programs for Pennsylvanians at postsecondary schools within the Commonwealth's borders had a record high overall economic impact during academic 1977-78 of $260,785,055, the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) announced today.

It was the eighth year an impact study was provided by PHEAA to the president of each school and college involved. The new figures were the highest in the 14-year history of Pennsylvania student aid.

Of the total, $40,321,108 was from federal funds received by students due to the state's requirement that students apply for both the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (federal) when they seek aid from the state through the State Grant Program and the Guaranteed Student Loan Program that is operated by PHEAA for the Commonwealth, plus a program of direct aid to private schools, the Institutional Assistance Grants (IAG) Program.

State Grant recipients numbering 99,702 received $63,074,699 from the State Grant Program. Of that number, 43,972 also received $40,321,108 from BEOG.

Some 82,576 students--both undergraduates and graduates--borrowed $146,251,793 under the Student Loan Program from participating private lenders. This, too, was a record.

Private institutions where state students receiving State Grants are in attendance received $11,137,455 under the IAG Program. The IAG Program was passed several years ago by the Legislature to help inflation-plagued private institutions to keep tuition costs from soaring.

Stealing a phone call isn't a game.

Most students play by the rules when placing a long distance call. They take advantage of bargain rates and make their calls during the discount periods. If you're not sure when you can call at discount rates, check your phone book.

A few students think it's O.K. to break the rules by stealing their telephone calls. They're not beating the system, they're taking advantage of all of us, because it drives up the cost of providing telephone service.

Students who break the rules also run the risk of paying a large fine. Spending time in jail. And getting themselves a permanent police record.

It's just not worth it!
