

Perspectives

Problems with student center

To The Editor:

Why do they call it a student center? When a building is entitled "Student Center" it would be safe to assume that it is for students.

This is my second term here at capitol campus and as far as I can tell the activities office is not much of an activities office, as experienced this past weekend.

Myself and a friend wanted to play pool at the student center. As usual the activities office and social committee had nothing planned so Saturday night proved naturally boring. Then, we found out the student center was locked. When we requested the key at the R.A. office in Wrisberg Hall we were denied and told by the R.A. on duty Saturday night, that someone had to be working there.

On occasions before, we could get the key for an exchange of our I.D. card, but this was not so last Saturday night.

Is it going to be this way every weekend, where students who do stay on campus don't even have the use of the student center?

Another friend wanted to go over to study and the R.A. still wouldn't give him the key or offer to open it up.

Although the student center doesn't have much to offer it still provides some recreation for "Left-behind" students and should be open.

Kevin Monroe
Term 8 MDET

No choice

Editor:

A sad situation has developed in our Dept. of Housing and Food Service. In our cafeteria we have no choice but to eat Tender Touch bread, which is produced by a company whose regular employees are on strike.

We are also forced to sleep on sheets produced by the J.P. Stevens Co. which is the nations number one violator of the National Labor Relations Act and the subject of a nation wide union boycott.

As a person raised in a decent home, where I was taught to respect the wishes of those who are forced to strike in order to achieve a livable wage and maintain human dignity, it turns my stomach to think that I am paying room and board to support unscrupulous businessmen and their "scabs."

I am equally disappointed in our Housing and Food Service Manager, Mr. Norm Gautreau, whose only reply to the problem is "do you want to eat?"

-Gratz Washenik and WMC

BITCH

In the interest of neatness, economy of time and the preservation of faculty members' eyesight, why aren't there any typewriters available to students? Electric machines are, of course, very expensive, but even tacky, second-hand manuals would be better than nothing. How about it?

BOX

Bill Wyatt
Term 12
Journalism
Luzerne County Community College
I chose Capitol Campus because of its close proximity to the state Capitol and because I grew somewhat weary of N.E. Penna.

Gregory K. Chubboz
Term 11
Business
Ferrum College, Ferrum, VA
I'm attending Capitol because my parents live in the area making it cheaper, also because Penn State has the eleventh best business program in the U.S.

Wayne Berkemeyer
Term 7
EDET
PSU Dela. Co. Campus
It offered the degree I wanted.

Mark Servinsky
Term 12
BCT
Williamsport Area Community College
I like the smaller class size - I think it's much easier to learn here than at university park.

Linda E. Padgett
Term 8
Psychosocial Science
Peirce Jr. College
Capitol accepted all of my credits. Also a previous teacher of mine, who attended Capitol Campus gave me a positive impression of Capitol.

Opinions at a glance

What are your reasons for coming to capitol campus?

by bob foster

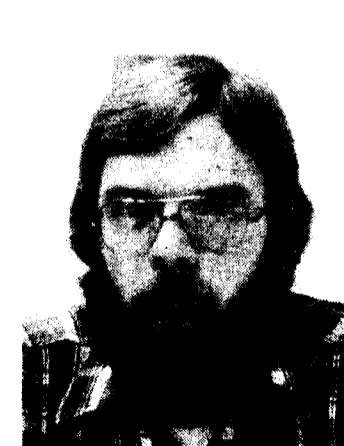

Mary Anne Foerster
Grad.
Education
Temple University
Capitol is close to my home and they have the reading specialist course in which I am interested.

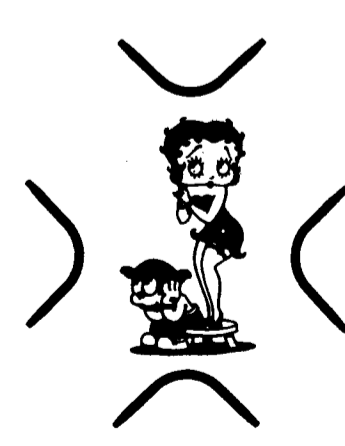

Dale Ginder
Term 8
MDET
York Campus
I liked the program in engineering technology offered here, and the location saves on living expenses by being able to commute.

Bert Davino
Term 12
Marketing
University of Conn.
University Park was too crowded....no place to live. Capitol is on a more personal basis. The ratio of guys to girls isn't bad here either!

Bob Elicker
Term 8
MDET
York Campus
I chose Capitol Campus because of it's location and the program offered.

Ooooooh. I heard about the male-female ratio.

