

On October 24, the C.C. Reader sponsored a newspaper workshop. Philip Clark (above), publisher and editor of The West Shore Times talked about his newspaper experience. Dr. Donald Alexander, associate professor of education, was also a workshop speaker. He expressed his ideas on effective newspaper organization. Louise Sukle and Martha Costik, layout artists for the Middletown Press and Journal, demonstrated layout techniques.

Danceteller to perform major concert

A concert combining drama, music, and dance will be presented by Danceteller, Thursday, Nov. 8, 8:00 p.m. at PSU /Capitol Campus in the auditorium, Main Building.

Appearing first on the program are two dances choreographed by the troupe's assistant artistic director, Gregory Clough. "Country Dances," a lively piece performed by the entire company, depicts a group of peasants frolicking on a summer afternoon. "Solos," is an interesting dance /theater interpretation of a dancer's attempts to convey a message while performing.

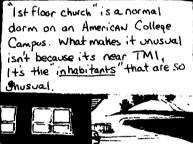

Following "Solos," Danceteller will perform two selections, "Pride" and "Sloth," from a suite of dances called "Roads to Hell." Considered one of the most important numbers in the history of modern dance, this selection was choreographed in 1941 by Eleanor King, an early modern dance pioneer.

Concluding the program dances, three choreographed by Trina Collins, that portray a wide variety of moods. "Dolls," a dance /theater work that uses traces of mystic overtones to deal with the qualities of femininity, "Mary," a Danceteller interpretation that gives a new twist to the familiar children's rhyme. During this number troupe members accompany themselves with their own vocalisations.

Finally, to the spirited music of Offenbach, Dance-teller will perform "Merry Belly Muscleworth," a comic work that gives a tongue-incheeck tribute to old movie romances.

Admission to the concert is $1.00 for the general public and free for all students, faculty and staff.

Pike fishing tips or: How to catch a Northern Pike without really trying

- 1. Crawl out of bed at 7 a.m. on a Saturday morning, which is already an hour after sunrise. Eat a bowl of Frosted Mini-Wheats (run out of energy by 8 a.m.)
- 2. Put boat on top of truck. Drive one-quarter mile to lake which has been open to boating for only one week and on which you have never boated before.
- 3. Launch boat at 8 a.m. in company of father and sister. Listen to middle-aged couple quarreling before they even get boat in the water.
- 4. Rig up BASS fishing rod with BASS fishing lure on eight-pound test BASS fishing line. Start fishing for BASS without the slightest thought of a Northern Pike.
- 5. Troll (pull lure after boat) for approximately two hundred yards from boat dock. Fell heavy tug on line. (Elapsed time--10 minutes). Proclaim loudly that it must be a CATFISH as you set the hook and start battle.
- 6. Finally see fish next to boat. See that fish is a Northern Pike. See that fish looks

- half as long as boat. See that only head of fish will fit in your Bass fishing net.
- 7. See friendly angler (well prepared) responding in his boat with big net after he sees your boat being towed around. Borrow big net.
- 8. Finally net fish. Row to shore because you're afraid to let that THING in boat with three people. Put fish on stringer.
- 9. Head back to boat dock, repeatedly astounding fellow anglers by lifting stringer. Hear various oaths and exclamations of disbelief and surprise.
- 10. Head for local sporting goods store and fishing buddies. Fill out application for Angler's Citation for Northern Pike caught while BASS FISHING. Use roll of film taking repeated snap shots. Graciously accept congratua lations and act as if this is everyday occurrence.
- 11. Put BASS fishing equipment away.
- P.S. Never catch a bass all morning.

Most students play by the rules when placing a long distance call. They take advantage of bargain rates and make their calls during the discount periods. If you're not sure when you can call at discount rates, check your phone book.

A few students think it's O.K. to break the rules by stealing their telephone calls. They're not beating the system, they're taking advantage of all of us, because it drives up the cost of providing telephone service.

Students who break the rules also run the risk of paying a large fine. Spending time in jail. And getting themselves a permanent police record.

It's just not worth it!
