poetry

A trail of two lines

By Julio

I really don't know how to start
But I have lots of time
To think of something really smart
And then to make it rhyme

So I might as well continue
To write along this vein
Because, you know, I've thought it through--
A poem's like a train

A poem can be long
It's verses can be short
It's words can be so strong
Or very hard to sort

One line can take you one way
And bring you back another
Might see your friend the one day
And then, the next, your mother

They can take you up the hill
Or they can bring you down
They can even break the still
Of midnight -- in a small town

I really don't know how to end
But now I think it's time
To conclude this little thing I've penned
Before it stops its rhyme

IAA grateful for Snowflakes

The International Affairs Association would like to thank "I. M. Fedup" for the five snowflakes. Our membership will do their best to ensure that they do not melt from inaction. In addition, our last meeting had unanimous agreement about asking "I. M. Fedup" to join our organization. His (or her?) displays of energy assure a welcome asset to IAA. Not to give away the true identity, of course; an incognito appearance at our January 28th meeting would be fitting.

As the title implies, IAA's primary function is to provide cross-cultural awareness. This is attempted through exposure to diverse cultural habits, religious beliefs, political perspectives, cuisine, art, and music. Numerous events are sponsored throughout the year, such as foreign films (all subjects), International Dinners, topical speakers, and model debates. If all this sounds a little vague, best bet is to get in touch with one of the members. Contact Mr. Clem Gilpin, Alan Foote (Church Hall 116), or Keith Yundt (Church Hall 136), or leave a note in the organizations mailbox in W-110.

The annual Model United Nations Conference is scheduled for February 21, 22, and 23. We anticipate 160-175 students and advisors to be participants this year, making the turnout the largest ever. Students will be divided into Committees, a Security Council, and a General Assembly. Staff positions have not been filled as yet. Personnel are needed for: office work, coordination of data, chairing of assemblies, and any other duties that need to be done. If this offer does not appeal just yet, wait another month. By the end of February you may want to skip those Friday classes to do something useful. Also, extra space is needed to house students who will not be commuting for the Conference. Those residences which have extra space, be it in the dorms or the Flights, have about 1000 sq. ft. of space for a room. If you have a room, please contact the IAA office for more information. The IAA office is located in the Student Center, Room 101. We are currently accepting applications for the 1980-81 Model United Nations Conference. The deadline for applications is February 15, 1980. If you are interested, please contact the IAA office for more information.
