

It Was a Very Good Year

Editor:

As the outgoing president of WSDC, this is my last official/unofficial correspondence of the year. I had intended to take shots at some deserving groups, but decided to keep this a friendly letter.

I'd like to thank Roger L. Williams and the Campus Relations staff on behalf of the club for allowing us to participate in the phonathon. The new brick sign at the main entrance on Route 230 is a more appropriate greeting to visitors than was its predecessor.

Congratulations are in order to Roberta Bronson, the new SGA President. Just remember, Roberta, you couldn't have done it without us loyal Wumke supporters.

Also, I'd like to congratulate all the graduating students of our campus, especially the WSDC seniors, who stuck by me whenever I needed support. It had to be tough putting up with me for a year, but we pulled through. I also have to congratulate the new WSDC officers, all of whom will do excellent jobs next year while upholding our tradition.

On a personal note, my own thanks goes out to Leonard Wumke, who provided me with many enlightening (?) thoughts throughout the year. Being an ardent fisherman, he should pass some of his expertise on to Julio, his former campaign manager, who let a trout get away. I know this isn't unusual, but the fish was already on the stringer.

Before I close, I have to thank Kevin Spiegel and Darrell Reider for the free publicity. If only they would spell my name right. It's B-O-Z-I-K! It was misspelled five times last issue. Kevin, the $20 bill was for a picture of me in action on the lanes. By the way, she said June 1 is okay.

Until next year, I remain socially yours

Joseph Bozik
President, WSDC

P.S. WSDC definitely has the prettiest bowlers (Lynne, Corinne, and Sue) and the prettiest cheerleaders (Joanie and Rosanne)

Ask A Stupid Question...

By Bill Neil And Dave Caruso

Dear Dave and Bill,

It seems to the engineers of this campus that your column is a sounding board for the basketweavers (that's engineering lingo for the non-engineering students) of Capitol Campus to direct their insults to us "dumb" engineers. I feel that you are contributing to the already tense feelings between these majors.

Have you ever sat down and thought (something you have little experience at) what this school would be like without the engineering program? The engineers help to bring outside industry on campus, thus giving the other majors a chance for interviews. Also, the companies that hire engineers put money back into the college that helps to redecorate Vendorville, instead of buying much needed lab equipment and facilities for the program that helped in getting these funds.

I personally do respect the other majors here at Capitol Campus, but I think that it is time that the engineers are accepted for their abilities to earn a living and help society. Thanks for the space to air my opinion.

By the way, do you have a job (non-McDonald's type) lined up for when you graduate?

The Sundance Kid

Dear Sundance,

You have got to be Kid-ding! Either that, or the engineering mentality has sunk to an all-time low.

Have you ever sat down and thought (or stood up and thought... or lay down and thought... or—and we realize this may be asking too much—walked and thought at the same time) what this school would be like without the humanities program? Why, if it weren't for the humanities program, there would be nobody left to speak the language fluently. Also, the university would have to spend exorbitant (that's non-engineering lingo for lots 'n lots) amounts of money to have all the mailboxes on campus removed, since they're the only ones who know how to write anyway.

We're glad that you respect the other majors here at Capitol Campus. It's just too bad that you weren't privileged enough to be in one of them.

Yes, we're proud to announce that we do indeed have non-McDonald's type jobs lined up for when we graduate. We have accepted executive positions ($$$) at Wendy's as French Fryers.

And by the way, whatever happened to JR?

Dear Sirs,

Why is "Alumnus" writing silly letters to his FORMER college newspaper instead of protesting to his Congressman about the need for better gun control; the renewed oppression of liberalism by "Moral Majority" types; the killing of innocent children in Atlanta; and the irresolution of questions concerning nuclear power?

Pat Murphy

Dear Patricia,

You referred to the letter from "Alumnus" as silly. We welcome all letters, especially silly ones. That is why yours was received so readily.

For your information, "Alumnus" is writing because he/she/it can't afford to phone us. (And we thought talk was cheap.)

By the way, you referred to this publication as "his former college newspaper." What do you think the C.C. Reader is now, the New York Times?

In the future, you should heed your own advice, and direct your silly letters to your Congressman, instead of to us.

"It's Still Rock and Roll" From the Fifties to Today!

Tuesday, June 2, 1981

12:30 p.m. Auditorium

Dear fellow students of the English language,

Why is the word antidisestablishmentarianism considered to be the longest word in the English language?

Dick Tionary

Dear Dick,

Wedontknowwhereyoutgotyourin formationbutwejusthappentoknowofalonerone.

Gentlemen:

When Superman changes his clothes in a phone booth, what does he do with them?

L. Lane

Dear L.,

It is a known fact that when Superman sheds his clothes in a phone booth, he leaves them there for his vagabond brother.

You may have heard of him: Super-tramp.

Dear Dave & Bill,

Can you help me out? I'm in a quandary. Why is it that such hapless, insipid, crude, ignorant, (the list of synonyms can go on forever) people come to Capitol Campus? Is it the air here, or what? There seems to be a dichotomy of styles that pervades the environment. The careless, sloppy, dirty, rude, and crude person paralleled to Mr. Clean. You know, the type of guy who takes a shower for excitement.

For example, to explicitly show the losers who come here: How can it be possible that a guy makes our tennis team when he couldn't make a Teener League baseball team because a girl beat him out of the position? What is our glorious campus coming to?

I ask you, Dave and Bill, what am I doing here?

Disilusioned to the max

Dear Disillusioned,

After reading all the hyperbolic questions in your letter, we are curious as to your major. What is it anyway, How to be a Game Show Host?

You ask us if we can help you out. (It's the one marked "Exit.")

You ask us why such characters come to Capitol Campus. (We give up, why did you?)

You ask us if it's the air here. (What do you think this is, Scientific Monthly?)

You ask us about Capitol's tennis players and their abilities. (Even if he can't swing a bat harder than a girl, maybe he can swing a racket faster.)

You ask us what our glorious campus is coming to. (The end of Spring Term 1981.)

You ask us what you're doing here. (Writing book-length letters.)

Man, you have more questions than George Steinbrenner has dollars!

Next week (June 4) will be the final issue of the C.C. READER this year. It's your last chance to voice your stupidity!

You can drop off any questions you may have at the C.C. READER office or give them to a staff member. Thank you very much.
