Register Now for Winter "Directions Workshops" Study Effectiveness Training and Stress Reduction

Both Study Effectiveness Training and Stress Reduction Workshops will be offered Winter Term. For those who are unable to attend the Fall S.E.T. Workshops, these will be a repeat series on four consecutive Wednesdays beginning January 13, 1982 through February February 3 from 1:00-3:30 p.m. S.E.T. participants learn time management strategies, skills for improving reading retention and recall, test-taking tips and note taking skills among other concerns generated by the participants.

The Stress Reduction Workshop will run five consecutive Wednesdays from 1:30-3:30 p.m. beginning February 10 through March 10, 1982. Participants will learn how to identify and cope with feelings of personal stress as they pertain to being a student, being a member of the family or being on the job.

As you consider your pre-registration plans for Winter term, you might want to keep these dates in mind.

The workshops are free and preregistration is required, so stop by the Counseling Center (W-117) and preregister early, if you haven't already done so.

Anyone interested in going to see a Rolling Stones concert in December should stop by the C.C. Reader office (W-129) and sign up. If the office is closed, just slide a piece of paper under the door with your name and address, indicating your interest in such a trip. If there are enough responses to warrant a bus trip, I'll proceed in trying to arrange it. This concert would take place in Washington, D.C. during Christmas break. Keep this in mind, because the bus would be leaving from Capitol Campus.
