

Multi-purpose building

By Robert Rejmaniak

It stands on the corner of 1st and O streets. It is known to some as the Multi-purpose building; to others, as the office building for continuing education; to others, merely as the Gym, and many don't know it at all.

On a campus with only two main buildings, it's ironic that one of them is so little known and under utilized.

Perhaps part of the problem is that there are multi-purposes for this Multi-purpose building.

To begin with, the second floor of the structure is filled with offices of admissions, financial aid, and veterans affairs. Further down the second floor hallway is the career planning and placement offices.

The rest of the structure is dedicated to athletics.

There is a recreational area on the second floor that is divided into two parts. On one side of the partition is a weight-room with strengthening equipment; including two universals, a set of free weights, and stationary bicycles.

The other half of the recreational area is an open, miniature gymnasium. This space is used for all kinds of activities. For example, some afternoons will find it being used for an aerobics class, other afternoons it may be used for cheerleading practice. Most of the time, however, it is open to all who wish to use it.

The Gymnasium is on the main floor. It is open to all students most of the day. Lately, however, the basket ball and baseball teams have been using the main gym between the hours of 3:00 pm and 7:00 pm.

After 7:00 pm the gym can be utilized to work off some of that frustration that comes from too much studying, and the "cooped up" feeling that comes with winter.

The Multi-purpose building is open Monday through Thursday, from 8:00 am until 10:00 pm; Fridays from 8:00 am until 9:00 pm; Saturdays from 2:00 pm until 8:00 pm; and Sundays from 2:00 pm until 9:00 pm. Valid Penn State ID's are required to use the facilities.
