

Bike-Aid '87 Now Recruiting

WANTED: Persons with ability to ride a bicycle and willing to take part in a worthwhile summer adventure.

AGE: You're old enough!

EXPERIENCE: You've got enough!

PAY: None.

BENEFITS: Touring the country on a bike. Developing dialogues and relationships with people nationwide. Learning about issues and options facing global hunger and poverty. Raising money for self-help community development projects in the Third World and here at home. Helping to perpetuate awareness of these issues by educating yourself and others this summer.

If these qualifications appeal to you, you may wish to consider spending your summer biking across the country. Last summer 75 enthusiastic Americans, who represented 28 campuses and ranged from 15 to 55 years in age crossed the country on bicycles as part of Bike-Aid '86, an event sponsored by the Overseas Development Network.

The Overseas Development Network is a nationwide coalition of student volunteers dedicated to educating themselves and others about the issues surrounding global hunger and poverty. In addition to education, the network raises funds to support self-help community development projects in the Third World and here in America. The ride in '86 netted nearly $100,000 for projects and student internships, as well as supporting other non-profit organizations with the same self-help philosophy. Oxfam America, a respected international agency will be included in the proceeds of '87.

On June 17th, cyclists will depart from four West coast cities: Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles. An Austin, Texas, contingent will depart on July 12th. During the ride, cyclists will visit nearly 225 American cities, meet with locals over evening meals, and take part in community service. All groups will meet in Washington, D.C. on August 12, then pedal together to New York on August 19 for two days of festivities. Interested?

We need riders, campus and community organizers, and donors. For further information, please write: Bike-Aid '87, Dept. CN2, Box 2306, Stanford, CA 94305 or call (415) 725-2869. Think about it!

Art Students "Alter" the Campus Environment

Students in C Art 440 (Art History and Studio: Twentieth Century Issues) have been working on installations throughout the Olmsted Building. These projects represent a contemporary trend in art in which the artist thinks beyond traditional gallery contexts and designs work that interacts with its public environment. Some of the student pieces make whimsical comments on the campus' architecture and some jar the association we have with certain spaces on campus. All of the pieces are intended to make us take a second look at spaces that generally escape our attention.
