

Tarnhelm '89 Needs You!

Attention creative students from all majors:
Tarnhelm '89 is looking for you!

Co-editors Laura Karinch and Judy Farina have announced that they are accepting submissions for the campus arts and literary magazine, Tarnhelm.

The magazine provides an opportunity for Penn State Harrisburg undergraduates and graduate students of all majors to express themselves in the print medium of their choice.

Tarnhelm will consider poetry, short story, essay, black and white photographs and graphic art.

Your most creative work(s) should be submitted following the guidelines below.

Do not place your name on the work; it will be judged anonymously.

Submit your name, address, phone number, major and option, and current term status on a separate cover sheet.

Drop off your submission(s) in either the Tarnhelm mail slot in 216 Olmsted or in W-360.

All entries must be typed on 8 1/2" by 11" unlined paper.

One poem per page.

Short stories and essays should be double-spaced.

Graphics and photography accepted in black and white only.

DEADLINE: Jan. 20, 1989.

Tarnhelm welcomes staff members. All interested students should sign up in W-360, the humanities suite.

Warren Newman performs in Gallery Lounge

By Jeff Quinn

Musician Warren Newman played infectious foot-tapping melodies to a small but very enthusiastic audience in the Gallery Lounge on Nov. 9.

The performance was part of the Penn State Harrisburg cultural series, Live in the Gallery Lounge.

Newman, who performed on the guitar and mandolin, played a variety of music that ranged from jazz and bluegrass tunes to melodies from the British Isles.

Currently, the group has released two recordings. Their first record, "High Strung," and a more recent release called "Second Wind."

Midway through his noon time performance, Newman was joined by Henry Koretzky, known to many Penn State Harrisburg faculty and students as the clerk at the periodical desk in the Heindel Library.

He came out of the audience and joined Newman in the performance.

Henry Koretzky (l) and Warren Newman perform "Live in the Gallery Lounge."

He opened the performance with a medley of mandolin tunes that combined British, Irish and American melodies.

"Many of the tunes may sound the same," Newman said, "but there are subtle rhythm and melodic differences among American, Irish and Scottish tunes."

The musician has formed his own group which is called "High Strung."

The group is based in Harrisburg and frequently plays at the Bottling Works in Mt. Joy as well as other local clubs and taverns.

played a variety of songs that included "Whiskey Before Breakfast" and a bluegrass tune entitled "Salt Creek."

Koretzky said that he had played with Newman and "High Strung" before, but that at the present time, he is a member of a group called "All Strung Out."

Students who missed the performance in the Gallery Lounge, can see and hear Newman and "High Strung" perform a bluegrass vesper service on Nov. 20 at the Covenant Presbyterian Church on 5th and Peffer streets in Harrisburg.

Scholarship announced for international students

Washington, D.C. -- The seventh annual International Student Scholarship Competition -- a nationwide essay competition for international students studying in the United States -- is now underway, said Tom St. Denis, vice president of International Underwriters/Brokers, Inc., sponsor of the competition.

First prize is $1,500 to be used for academic or professional advancement.

International Underwriters/Brokers, Inc., also will award $350 to the International Student Office of the first-place winner.

Deadline for the competition is Dec.

1. International students interested in entering must submit an essay of no more than 1,500 words on the topic:

"Important cross-cultural clues are often found in humor. Compare humor in your country with humor as you find it in America. Include examples of humorous situations resulting from cross-cultural misunderstandings, either in the U.S. or on your first visit back to your home country."

Additional scholarships will be awarded to a second-place winner ($1,000); a third-place winner ($500) and five honorable mention recipients ($100 each).

The competition is open to all full-time foreign students enrolled in a prescribed degree or certificate-granting program at an accredited high school, junior college, college or university within the United States.

Also eligible are students enrolled in an English training program who plan to pursue higher education in the United States.
