From the editor's desk

By Kimberly M. Anastas, editor-in-chief

As the semester comes to an end, so does my editorship. I am leaving Capital Times in capable hands. David Blymire will succeed me as editor-in-chief. Anyone who has read David's album reviews must realize that he is a very good writer. He's a good reporter and I trust that he will also be a good editor.

Dave is a junior majoring in humanities; this has been his first semester at Penn State Harrisburg. I hope that he will find editorship of Capital Times to be rewarding.

I won't use this space to philosophize but to say thanks. Thanks to so many people at this college who have inspired me, guided me and befriended me. You know who you are.

Thanks also to all of you who have been more than cooperative and supportive of Capital Times this semester.

Thanks especially to Michael Anastas who came up with many good ideas to improve Capital Times and who was (and is) as supportive and understanding as a husband can be.

I take with me many good qualities as a result of my experiences here. I hope others have been and will be as lucky.

I am very proud to soon be a graduate of Penn State Harrisburg.

Nine respond to survey

The results from the alcohol survey that we ran in the last issue of the Capital Times are as follows:

Males = 3
Females = 6

- Do you feel that the current alcohol policy is fair?
Yes = 3
No = 6
- Do you feel that undergraduate organizations should be allowed to hold functions that include alcohol if they make sure that they do not serve minors and if there is a faculty advisor present?
Yes = 5
No = 4
- Do you think that we should be able to hold an over 21 club in the Lion's Den once a month, with alcoholic beverages and a faculty member on hand to check I.D.s?
Yes = 5
No = 4
- Do you think that drinking is already a big part of the social life on campus and that if it were done in a more controlled setting, such as the ones described above, everyone would benefit?
Yes = 5
No = 4
- What other revisions could you propose?

"The initial reason to have a no alcohol policy was to cut down on DWI, grads and profs cannot drive any better than anyone else while under the influence."

Allow drinking in the dorms if damages don't increase.

Transportation and designated drivers.

Keep them the same, you don't have to drink or smoke to have a good time at a party.
