

PHOTOS

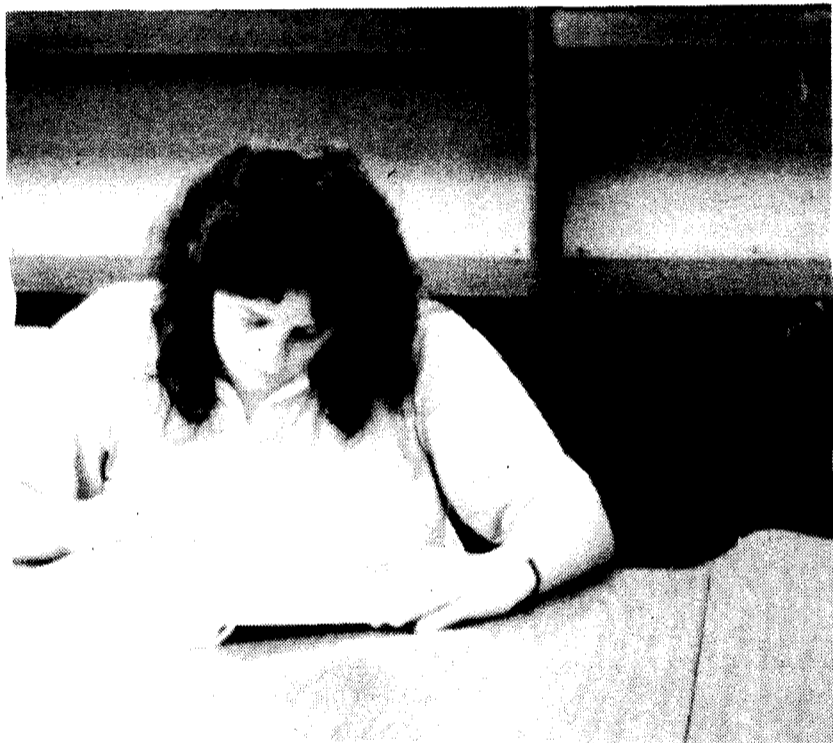

Back to the books

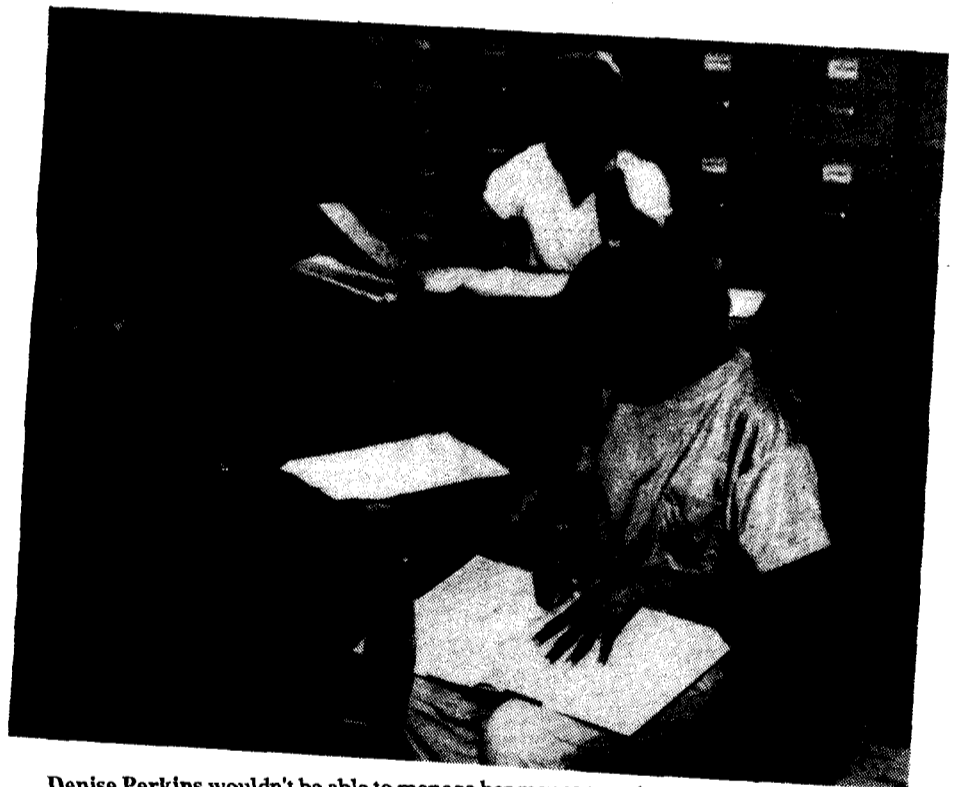

Shanel R. Woods flips over abnormal psyche in the Black Cultural Arts Center.

There's nothing as relaxing as programming in the microprocessor lab, for Pat McCurdy.

Taking in some elementary ed. close to home, Donna Bensinger studies in the Church Hall lounge.

Denise Perkins wouldn't be able to manage her management homework if it weren't for the Heindel Library.

Troy Johnson always gets a little 'high tech' help from the computer center for his marketing research homework.

Jeff Mace says 'his tree' outside the power plant building is the only place to study psychology.