Alumna resents Bob's labels

Dear Editor:

I read with interest your column of Sept. 20 in which you quoted the journalist's code of ethics and discussed the rights of journalists. You then take one of your readers to task for having expressed his opinion about the quality of Bob Caton's column in a letter to the editor, and at the same time, encourage your readers to express their opinions.

Rights and freedoms work two ways. As part of your reading public and as an alumnus of Penn State Harrisburg, I wish to exercise my right to express my anger and resentment at being labeled a "polyester-clad, gin-soaked" alumnus, among other things by one of your writers.

If it is your intention to publish Bob Caton's column to make your newspaper more interesting and controversial, I congratulate you for having succeeded. It's sad that he had to resort to insults and name-calling to accomplish your purpose.

A proud alumna,
Millie Landis

--To force car manufacturers to mount rocket launchers in the front of all vehicles, so when Ma and Pa Kettle are zipping down the freeway at a fate-taunting 30 mph to get their free McDonald's coffee, we can clear the road to get to the State Store before it closes.

--To make Penn State spend as much on undergraduate programs as they do on sneakers for the football team.

--To hire Guns 'n' Roses to play at my inauguration.

--To publish the S.A.T. scores of the Florida State football team, and then deduct the number of points the team's average score is BENEATH the national average from their A.P. ranking.

--To hold press conferences at 3:00 a.m., so as not to interfere with TV shows.

--To invade and conquer Canada, so we can win the gold medal in hockey again.

--To provide free Porsche 928's to all who voted for me. (Again...should be popular.)

Well, campers, there you have my platform for victory. Remember...vote for Bob and Traci... "We might not do better, but we sure as hell can't do worse!"

There are those who would say that I lack certain "Presidential qualities." I suppose this is true...I'm more concerned with people in this country than people half a world away. That, and the fact that I tend to ask for far bigger bribes than normal.

Until next time...
