

Michael Bolton to perform at campus casino opening

by Brad Moist
Music Editor

On Wednesday March 24 Penn State Harrisburg officials were proud to announce that singer songwriter Michael Bolton will be gracing the capitol campus with his presence. Campus officials have gained the respect of Bolton with the building of the campus casino. Bolton, who is an avid attendee of various casinos is honored to be the guest speaker and feature performer for the casino's opening weekend.

Professor Lau, who teaches Forms in Music, as well as WPSH Assistant Station Manager Brad Grissinger are ecstatic that Bolton is coming to perform here. Both were unavailable for comment due to the work load that has piled upon both in order to get ready for Bolton's arrival. Grissinger will be in charge of housing the campus guest at his private cottage in Perry County. Lau is in charge of making sure that all the necessary musical instruments are available since school officials were only able to pay for both Bolton himself and his musical track machine.

Bolton officials have already sent the campus a tentative set schedule of what songs Bolton will perform. They include the 1993 hit "Said I Loved You...But I Lied", "Never Get Enough of Your Love" and the theme song to the Disney animation film Hercules.

Other songs include covers of Michael Jackson, The Doobie Brothers and the new pop sensation, the New Radicals.

Campus officials are excited to have on campus a man of Bolton's stature and popularity. They feel he will draw in needed revenue for the campus as well as draw a huge crowd for the casino's grand opening.

Let's have one more...
And then we'll head back to work.

Michael Bolton on the cover of his 1993 "The One Thing" album

Psycho

Continued from page 6

in their tradition, he was never a leader. Pushing her onto the sweltering tracks below, Daniel began to run away.

"Daniel what on earth are you doing let me go this is burning me," Julie screamed but to no avail. Daniel sprinted down the hillside as he set his sights on the Greyhound bus terminal. Apparently, her own brother was abandoning her. Julie had seemingly been left to die on these tracks. But as the Conrail 520 hustled along in the not too far distance, something unimaginable occurred.

Meanwhile, Daniel was fueled by a torrent of rage and denial as he galloped toward the terminal. His mission was to get a seat on the next available charter leaving town. His muscular legs, honed through many hours in football practice, pulsed with each step he took. He had no particular destination. What he had was the inescapable need to flee.

WPSH is looking for DJ's and dedicated staff members for the fall semester call 948-6396
for more info

THE FIRST EVER

WPSH
SPRINGFEST 88.7 fm

APRIL 28

WITH LIVE PERFORMANCES BY

DEVOTED MOLDED

KAVANAH ★ STAR

WHEELS OF FIRE

OLMSTED SCULPTURE GARDEN

11 AM - 3 PM

FOR MORE INFO
CALL 948-6396

RAIN DATE APRIL 29

(this is not a joke!)