

“

If you had a chance to start a club or organization with complete funding, what would it be?

Interviews and Photos by Kristy Pipher

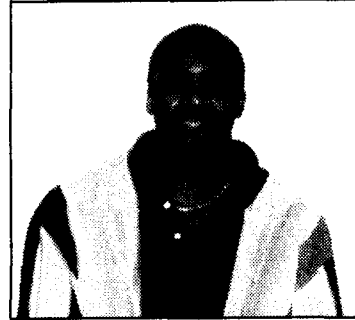

John Mansure
Secondary Education English

Rachelle Knox
BESC

Allen Hushon
Secondary Education Social Studies
Pete Karpew
Secondary Education English

Halman Smith
Communications

Eric Rensel
SDCET

I would like to see a club in which students could get together and meet new people. A hiking or anti-violence rally for middle and high school students would be important to include.

I would like to start a club to offer support to single parents that are going to school. It would be nice to have a group that understands all of the trouble one faces going back to school with children, and also to provide some solution for problems.

An Outdoor Activity Club. Activities would include ski trips, paintball trips, white water rafting, and camping with a focus on Central Pennsylvanian wildlife and habitats. Community involvement would include adopt a highway, wildlife conservation, and area beautification.

I think an Entrepreneur's Club would be well-received. The resources are at our disposal to research and develop ideas into probable ventures. And I believe this type of club would prove valuable in assembling talents for a venture.

I might participate in a Sports Fanatic Club. People that love their team. This could include internural sports, college sports, and professional sports.

Chicken Soup For The College Soul

North American Precis Syndicate

Now there's one more thing to pack up when students go to college—a special edition of a best-selling book series dedicated especially to the college student.

The college years are a time of transition for students—and their parents—as students experience some challenging life lessons and move toward adulthood.

Chicken Soup for the College Soul (Health Communications, Inc., $12.95) captures the confusion of collegiate emotions in the vivid and empathetic manner that the Chicken Soup for the Soul series is known for.

Co-authored by Kimberly Kirberger, Jack Canfield, Mark Victor Hansen and Dan Clark, the book captures the laughter and tears, triumphs and trepidations and joys and fears associated with the college years.

Chapters include "Getting In," which illustrates the humor and frustration involved in trying to get into that special school; "Transition," which covers the difficulty for students (and parents) when a child leaves home for the first time; "Tough Stuff," which deals with tough decisions and tragedies; and "Graduation."

One story, "A Dad Says Goodbye," shares the reverie of a parent who remembers bringing his daughter home from the hospital as she is setting up her college dorm. His memories help him prepare for the fact that she won't be coming home when he and his wife leave.

Another story, "Some Professors Are Smarter Than You Think," tells the tale of four college students who faked an excuse for missing their chemistry final and thought that they could not only get away with it, but ace the class. As smart as these A students were, their professor found a way to outsmart them.

As with the other books in the series, Chicken Soup for the College Soul is bound to leave an indelible impression on readers, showing that no matter what your age, you're never too old for some Chicken Soup.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

PENNSYLVANIA STATE GOVERNMENT IS LOOKING FOR ACCOUNTING INTERNS

We Offer:

- $9.34 Per Hour, 37.5 Hours Per Week
- Valuable Work Experience
- Consideration For Full Time Employment After Graduation

Qualifications:

Enrollment as a full-time student in an accredited bachelor's degree program in accounting, completion of the first semester of the junior year (or 75 credits), and satisfactory completion of 15 credits or five courses in accounting and three credits or one course in Basic Data Processing.

Interested:

For application materials or additional information, contact:

Benito Martinez
State Civil Service Commission
P.O. Box 569
Harrisburg, PA 17108-0569
Phone (717) 787-6127
Email: bmartinez@scsc.state.pa.us

An Equal Opportunity Employer