

“ Would you marry a complete stranger for a million bucks? ”

Photos and Survey by Jesse Gutierrez & Company

Aaron Kemper
Sociology

No, because $1 million isn't worth being stuck with someone you really don't know and may not have a lot in common with.

Stephanie Confer
Psychology

No, because I'd want to be happy in my marriage and a million dollars wouldn't be worth being unhappy.

Brad Grissinger
Communications

Yes, and then I would slowly poison her.

Luke Ansel
Electrical Engineering
Technology

Since I'm not in this actual position, it is easy for me to say that I would not. I don't think I could commit myself to someone that my only knowledge of is their financial status.

Jean Bell - Psychology

Never in a million years.
