

How do you deal with end of semester stress?

Survey and photos by Debra Glass
Capital Times Staff Writer

Janell Lausch

Elementary Education

"Keep a careful count of EXACTLY how many days are left. Laughing a lot helps, too."

Jennifer Kasunick

Humanities

"Drink Celestial Seasonings Tension-Tamer herbal tea, lift weights, decorate and laugh my head off."

Natasha Francis

Finance

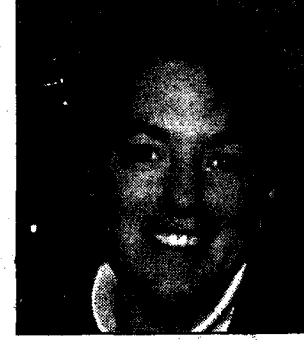

"First I start by praying to the most high God, asking him for his guidance upon me, to give me the strength and the power to remember everything that I learned in the beginning of the semester and throughout the end."

Michelle Simmons

Humanities

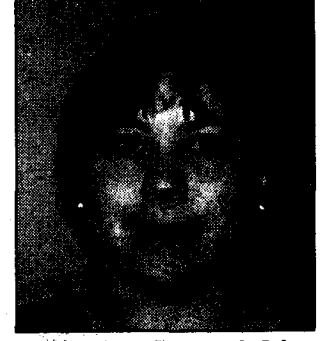

"Eat a lot!"

Katie Ammerman

Elementary Education

"Exercise. Lots of prayer."

Elizabeth Kozicki

Public Policy

"SHOP!"

include the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Tarnhelm, Institute of Management Accountants Student Chapter, Learning Center staff and the engineering faculty. A total of 300 subs were sold and the $400 proceeds were used to establish a college trust fund for Brandon. IEEE plans to run this event again in the spring. To contribute to this great cause, please e-mail Stefani Mastandrea at sam379@psu.edu.

For The Record

In the Nov. 20 issue of The Capital Times, we incorrectly reported the Nov. 8 post-election results. The article should have read:

"By the morning of Nov. 8, Vice President Al Gore had received the majority of the popular vote and the majority of the electoral votes. However, at 262 electoral college votes, Gore fell short of the required 270."

The staff of The Capital Times takes accuracy seriously and we apologize to our readers for the mistake.
