Milton Hershey's president to speak at PSH graduation May 15

from STAFF REPORTS

John A. O'Brien, president of the Milton Hershey School, will address Penn State Harrisburg graduates at the Giant Center in Hershey on Saturday, May 15.

As president of the Milton Hershey School, O'Brien is responsible for the realization of the vision and delivery of the mission of MHS - to serve children in financial and social need so they ultimately live fulfilling and productive lives. In addition to being responsible for all the school's programming, he ensures that the actions of the school's Trust Board are in alignment with the school's mission.

Originally from Snow Shoe, Pa., O'Brien grew up at Milton Hershey School where he was enrolled at the age of three. His post-secondary and post-graduate studies include psychology, learning theory, and education. Following positions in teaching, leadership in organizational effectiveness, and experiential learning technology, he founded Renaissance Leadership Inc. in 1978. He served as a high-performance coach for more than 62,000 managers and executives until accepting his post at Milton Hershey School in 2003.

O'Brien holds a bachelor's degree from Princeton University and a master's from Johns Hopkins University.

Hendrick Best Practices for Adult Learner's Conference

from STAFF REPORTS

On behalf of the Commission for Adult Learners, you are invited to attend the 2004 Hendrick Best Practices for Adult Learners Conference, a University-wide event for staff, faculty, and others who are interested in learning more about Penn State's best practices for adult learners.

The Conference will feature Dr. Pamela J. Tate, president of the Council for Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL), as the keynote speaker and Dr. Diane M. Disney, dean of the Commonwealth College, and Dr. Craig D. Weidemann, vice president for Outreach, as the respondents. Tate is nationally and internationally recognized for her work in facilitating workforce education and training programs among educational institutions, business, labor, and government and for her efforts in assisting colleges and universities to develop systems of Prior Learning Assessment and quality assurance in adult learning programs. She is regularly sought after to share her insights and vision into the relationship that adult learning has on the future of the economy.

In addition to the keynote address and response panel, the conference includes many high quality breakout sessions on issues relating to enrollment management, student services, alternative delivery methods, teaching and curriculum, and an awards luncheon.

The registration fee is $45.00, and conference attire is business casual. Because of budget limitations at some Penn State locations, the Commission for Adult Learners has instituted a Travel Grant Program to make it possible for faculty and staff from all campuses to attend the 2004 Hendrick Conference. One travel grant will be awarded per campus, and preference will be given to those who car or van pool.

The on-line registration form, Conference agenda, travel grant application, breakout sessions listing, and lodging information for the 2004 Hendrick Best Practices for Adult Learners Conference can be accessed at <http://www.sa.psu.edu/cals/commission/hendrickconference/>.

Should you need additional information or help with the registration process, please contact Julie Horton by calling 814-863-3887 or by e-mailing her at jah47@psu.edu.
