

The Capital Times

Volume 48 No. 6

The Student Voice of Penn State Harrisburg

Nov. 19, 2008

Facebook message incited campus safety worries

No serious threat, says Police Services; Former student cited with disorderly conduct

By DIANA LE
EDITOR IN CHIEF
DXL5037@PSU.EDU

After a message posted on Facebook incited worries of weapons being brought to campus, Penn State Harrisburg Police Services cited a former student with disorderly conduct.

Olutomi Adedolapo Iliyomade, 21, of 11509 Manorstone Lane, Columbia, Md., was issued the citation on Nov. 6.

In response to messages exchanged between two current PSH students after the presidential election on Nov. 4, Iliyomade wrote a message similar to "Bring your guns to campus. Get used to a black president," said Chief Kevin Stoehr of Police Services.

Police Services said people who read Iliyomade's comment on the social networking site started sending text messages to other people and the message became slightly distorted. Police Services began receiving phone calls about the message around 12:30 a.m., Nov. 5.

Iliyomade was not found at his home in Village of Pineford, said Stoehr. Police Services then contacted the Howard County Police Department in Maryland, where Iliyomade's family lives. However, Stoehr explained, his

Please see MESSAGE on page 4

Designs created for new freshman housing

Photo by DIANA LE / The Capital Times

A drawing of the lobby and lounge areas of the new freshman dorms.

By WILLS KING AND DIANA LE
STAFF WRITER, EDITOR IN CHIEF
WPK5004@PSU.EDU,
DXL5037@PSU.EDU

New on-campus housing to accommodate Penn State Harrisburg's growing student body is one step closer to "Welcome Home." According to Don Holtzman, director of Student affairs and enrollment, the general building design and floor plans were recently completed, but specific details such as building materials and other finishing touches are still in the works.

The residence hall, which will be built in the area next to The Village's 9000 building, behind the Community Center, is expected to house approximately

Please see HOUSING on page 6

Articles of impeachment brought against SGA Senator Patterson

Chief Justice Eisler refuses to say whether Patterson is aware of charges

By MARIN ALICE
ASSISTANT EDITOR
MAB5338@PSU.EDU

Student Government Association Senator Kemeisha Patterson is undergoing an impeachment process.

According to the SGA constitution, in order for a senator to be impeached, a student must submit a briefing to the Chief Justice of the Student Court that states the reasons for impeachment.

According to Article IX of the SGA constitution, "any member of the 3 branches who damages the images or infringes upon the constitution of the SGA, or University Policy shall be subject to impeachment."

Once impeachment charges are brought to the Chief Justice, an impeachment board is formed to see if the charges are valid, according to Oliver Eisler, Chief Justice of the Student Court.

If the charges are found to be valid, the senate will hold a removal hearing, said Eisler.

When asked if Patterson was aware of the charges, Eisler had no comment.

When asked if the impeachment board had met yet, Eisler informed The Capital Times that it was not public information.

'Holiday Mail for Heroes' aims to deliver one million cards

By KATIE CATINA
STAFF WRITER
KMC5155@PSU.EDU

Its almost that time again. The malls are decorated with lights and bows. Middletown is embellished in holiday cheer. Festive music is incorporated into television and radio ads.

And its time to send our holiday cards to the brave servicemen and women stationed across the globe. Through Dec. 10, the Red Cross and Pitney Bowes Inc., will be collecting and screening these cards.

Mailers are encouraged to include a cheerful message and thanks. In the past, senders have used stencils and lots of color to induce the holiday spirit. The Red Cross asks mailers to refrain from using glitter or including inserts within these cards, as they will delay the screening process.

In 2007, the Red Cross and Pitney Bowes sent 600,000

Please see CARDS on page 6

Photos courtesy of American Red Cross: Holiday Mail for Heroes

INDEX:

NEWS	4-7	CAMPUS LIFE	10-13	SPORTS	16-19	COMICS	21
OPINION	8-9	ENTERTAINMENT	14-15	POLICE, CALENDAR	20	GAMES	22