Editor's Comments

Considering this is the last issue of the semester, perhaps it's time for reflection.

As the Editor of this paper I can say this about the staff:

- We worked hard to try to improve the paper every way we could.
- We didn't give up, even when the pressure was cooking.
- Sometimes we worked on the paper until 5:30 a.m. just to make sure it went to print. Yes, 5:30 a.m.
- We did whatever it took to put an issue out with as little Associated Press as possible... Even if it means writing a few extra articles. We are aware of this problem and are trying our hardest to fix it.

The most important thing I can stress is how we value and cherish our audience, you, the students, faculty and staff on this campus. What's important to you is important to the paper.

Our door is always open and we're always checking our email, so come talk to us, email us, tell us what you want to see in your paper. If you're in a club and have an event, tell us so we can write a story. If you just think you have a good idea, tell us, because we're always listening.

Our primary goal is to embrace the campus in any way we can and we can't do that without you.

I left this space blank on purpose dagnabbit.
