A LETTER TO THE LORD .- In a garden of Berlin, a canary bird was found, bearing on its neck

But to my story: The other morning at the breakfast table, when I, an unobserved spectator, happened to be present, Calhoun was observed frequently to gaze at his right hand, and brush his left in a hurried and excited manner. He did it so often that it excited attention. At length one of the persons composing the breakfast party —his name, I think, is Toombs, and he is a member of Congress from Georgia—took upon himself to ask the occasion of Mr. Calboun's inquietade rover your name pain you?" he asked of Mr. Importers. and Who Calhoun. To this Mr. Calhoun replied, in rather a flurried manner. "Pshaw, it is nothing. Only a dream I had last night, and which makes me see, perpetually, a large black spot, like an ink blotch, upon the back of my right hand. An optical il-lusion; I suppose." Of course, these words excited the curiosity of the company, but no one ventured to beg the details of this singular dream, until Mr. Toombs a great deal of truth about them." "But this was such a peculiarly absurd dream." said Mr. Calhoun, again brushing the back of his right hand; "however, if it does not intrude too much on the time of our friends, I will relate it

Of course the company were profuse in their expressions of anxiety to know all about the dream. In his singularly sweet voice Mr. Calhoun related

At a late hour last night, as I was sitting in my room, engaged in writing, I was astonished at the entrance of a visitor who entered, and, without a word, took a seat opposite me at the table. This surprised me, as I had given particular orders to the servant that I should on no account, be disturbed. The manner in which the intruder entered, so perfectly self-possessed, taking his scat opposite me without a word, as although my room and all within it belonged to him, excited in me as much surprise as indignation. As I raised my head to look at his features, over the top of my shaded lamp, I discovered that he was wrapped in a thin cloak, which effectually concealed both his of French, English, and American Manufacture, from face and features from view; and, as I raised my head, he spoke-"What are you writing, Senator from South Carolina?" I did not think of his impertinence at first, but that I am expected to produce a plan in the event of certain contingencies.)

To this the intruder replied, in the coolest manner possible : "Senator from South Carolina, will you allow me to look at your right hand?" He arose, the cloak fell and I beheld his face. Gentlemen, the sight of that face struck me like a clap of thunder. It was the face of a dead man. whom extraordinary events had called back to life The features were those of General George Washington !---yes, gentlemen, the intruder was none other than General George Washington. He was dressed in the Revolutionary costume, such as you see in the Patent Office. Hon. Mr. Calhoun paused, apparently much agitated. His agitation, I need not tell you, was shared by the company. At length Mr. Toombs broke the embarrassing pause : "Well, what was the issue of this scene?"

Mr. Calhoun resumed : The intruder, as I have said, rose and asked to look at my right hand. As though I had no power to refuse, I extended it. The truth is I felt a strange thrill pervade me at his touch ; he grasped it and held it near the light, thus giving me time to examine every feature. It was the face of Washington. Gentlemen, I shuddered as I beheld the horrible dead-olive of that visage. After holding my hand a moment he looked at me steadfastly and said in a quiet way :

often, for weeks together, had been unable to sleep, except in a sitting posture It was painful to look upon her emaciated frame and distressed countenance. Feeling quite satisfied that no medicine could restore her to health, we (i. e., Dr. Dawson and Mr. Kincaid) thought only of affording some temporary relief, and gave her about one-third of a hottle of your Expectokant. One week after, her husband came for more, and informed us that, for the first time in eight years she had slept sweetly. George H. Hart, E. P. Ross, A. O. Cattell, Foster S. Perkins, E. W Bailey, DEAR SIR: In the Fall of 1848, I was attacked with a most violent racking in my left side, immediately under my heart, giving me the most excruciating agony, and at times rendering me entirely speechless. I tried for nearly a year all the remedies which were recommended for my disease, under the most skilful physicians, but unfortunately without success. I was at last about to give up in despair, when a kind friend thought of your EXPECTORANT. I procured a bottle of it, and before I had entirely used the whole of it, I felt manifest symptoms of a change for the better. I continued on using it, and by the time I had taken five bottles, I found myself completely cured by means of your invaluable medicine Yours, very respectfully.

There is nothing that adde to the appearance of lädles, gentlemen, or children, so much as a fine head o hair.
