TO MY SON.

On his leaving school to enter upon a mercantile business. Child of my love—my eldest—my first-born...

My noble boy, how like a passing dream Thy fifteen years to me have been!

Thou hast grown to a man, my first-born, How swift thy boyish years to me have flown!

Thou art a man, my first-born, How swift thy boyish years to me have flown!

Thou art a man, my first-born, How swift thy boyish years to me have flown!

Thou art a man, my first-born, How swift thy boyish years to me have flown!

LITTLE GEORGIE'S PRAYER.

Little Georgie, an interesting boy of four summers, had been taught by his mother to pray...

"Life!" repeated the dying woman, "Life!" she seemed to be thinking...

It was a solemn scene. The first rays of dawn had penetrated through the blinds...

One day, being unwilling to yield to his mother's wishes, she was obliged to punish him...

Needle work is thus gratefully eulogized by Nathaniel Hawthorne in the Marble Faun...

It is all over—all over," she said, crying. "It is all dead!" said Rosa, who could not yet believe...

Martha answered only with a sigh. "I did not cry," said she, "when I saw a little child..."

"What is that death?" she said. "I thought dying was a great deal worse. I should have been so afraid last night if I had been told that my aunt would die this morning..."

Thou'rt ye, oh angel, help the boy along. Thou'rt ye, oh angel, help the boy along. Thou'rt ye, oh angel, help the boy along...

AMUSEMENTS FOR YOUNG MEN.

Let me say, first of all, that you ought certainly to be amused. Every man ought to be. Recreation has a lawful place in every well-ordered life...

There must be something wrong in that state of society which makes no room for them. There must be some great misunderstanding, or abuse of them, when people become ashamed of them...

What, then, are some of the conditions, respecting amusements, which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins?

First, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Second, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Third, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Fourth, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Fifth, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Sixth, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Twenty-fourth, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

Twenty-fifth, amusements which are required to be carefully observed, in order that they may not be ruinous and degrading sins.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRINCIPLES OF THE NEW CONFEDERACY.

We publish, says the New York Tribune, an address delivered last Thursday, March 21st, in Savannah, by Hon. A. H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederate States...

Confederate States. Probably no person connected with the new government, so styled, either as legislator or executive officer, has so amply possessed the respect of the North, both as a statesman and as a man...

His defection from the loyal stand he first made against the secession, and his subsequent adherence to the new government, has been written by foreigners. Russian writers usually admit that the system is oppressive, and the literature of the populace teems with stories of the grotesque and usually filthy tyranny of the master...

While the master is thus absolute over the individual, he is powerless as against the community, or against a general right. No proprietor in Russia has a right to sell children, or separate husbands and wives, or to divide property as he pleases...

It is not, perhaps necessary to examine very fully the consequences of this great deed. There are two things in such a country, as in the lives of individuals, when the act to be done is too vast for human foresight, and leave the consequences to the God you have obeyed...

The first is an increase in the political strength of Russia. The House of Romanoff, with all its despotic principles, has been for ages in fair accord with the people. The masses, while distrusting the throne, and detesting the aristocracy, have been steadily loyal to the throne...
