Rev. Professor Shedd's Call.—The congregation of the Brick church on Murray Hill, N. Y. under the care of its veteran pastor, the Rev. Dr. Spring, on Thursday evening, February 6, extended a unanimous call to the Rev. Dr. Shedd, of Andover Theological Seminary, to become associate pastor. Professor Shedd is now filling a post of distinguished usefulness in the Theological Seminary at Andover, where he is highly and deservedly esteemed as an able, orthodox and learned teacher of divine truth. He was formerly in connection with our own Church, a professor in Auburn Seminary, and is known to the literary world as the Editor of a late American edition of the works of Coleridge.

& Deserved Pension.—The Christian Instructor says: It will be gratifying to many to know that the Turkish Government has fixed, through the British Ambassador at Constantinople, an annual allowance of 20,000 plastres-about £160, or $800, upon the mother and sister of the lamented Rev. W. Graham, missionary of the Irish Presbyterian Church at Damascus, and who was so brutally murdered in the outbreak of 1860. Mr. Graham was associated with our own (United Presbyterian) laborers in that mission, and richly is the pension deserved for those, who, in the death of such a son and brother, suffered a sudden and terrible bereavement.

Mr. Hammond has been laboring with us here for nearly three weeks, with very marked and blessed effects. He has been enabled, I doubt not, by the Holy Ghost abundantly given to him, to present the great truths of our Saviour's gospel in a bold, faithful, affectionate manner, and the hand of the Lord has been present to wound and heal many. At the meeting last evening perhaps a hundred and fifty persons tarried after Mr. Hammond's address for religious conversation and inquiry. Many of these are seriously asking, "What must I do to be saved?" and quite a number already are rejoicing in the hope of having found Christ precious to their souls Cor. Mr. S. is attached o the staff of Major General Blane. Rev. John W. Hassler, of Centre Square, Montgomery county. Pa., has received the appointment of Chaplain in the 112th regiment P. V., heavy artillery, Col. Angeroth commanding.

Army.

A Refermation.—The Chaplain of the Second Ohio Regiment recently said that eight had died out of the regiment of which he is chaplain, and he blessed God that they all died in the triumphs of faith. Among them was a young man whom he once heard swear profanely. He reproved him. He swore again, and said it was none of his business. He reproved him again, but to no purpose. He then reminded him of the interest his parents felt in him, of their kind instructions, and of the instructions he had received in the Sabbath School. This broke him down, and in a few days he united with the "Christian Band." In three weeks afterwards he died; and in his parting words, he thanked the chaplain for his faithfulness to him, and said. 'Tell, the Colonel, tell my Captain, tell all my friends, that I thank God I ever came into the army."-Christian Intelligencer.

Gen. Wool's Order on Gambling. - The folommand of the army at Fortress Monroe :-HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF VA., Fortress Monroe. Va., Dec. 4, 1861.

GENERAL ORDER, No. 46. The practice of gambling, being destructive to good order and military discipline, is forbidden to the troops serving in this department. Commanding officers are directed to use every means in their power to enforce this prohibition of a vice so pernicious; and should any officer be guilty of a violation of this order, charges will be preferred against him, that he may be brought to trial." By command of Major-General Wool.

(Signed) WM. D. WHIPPLE, A. A. G. Chaplain Chidlaw, of the 39th Ohio, narrates n incident of one of the marches of his regiment in Missouri, as follows:—"One venerable old lady, her wrinkled face radiant with smiles her tremulous voice burdened with blessing upon the soldiers bearing the stars and stripes, came to the road to greet Several of our men said to me, "Chaplain, go and shake hands with the good old mother for us all.' I did so, and my hand, never received a more cordial shake. "God bless you, and every soldier in your ranks!" gushed from her patriotic heart, bedewed with her tears. The loud shouts of our gallant soldiers told the response of a thousand hearts Still holding my hand, she said. 'My father was seven years in the Revolutionary war. I have lived for seventy-five years in this land of law and order. protected and blessed. There is my home. For him I live, and in gation are in the army, from whom frequent letters him I hope to die,' were the touching words of the aged pilgrim, loyal to her God and her country."

Temperance - Chaplains -The following extracts are from the army correspondence of the Christian Intelligencer .- Our camps, as a rule, are sober from necessity. If liquor could be got, and freely used, the case would be different. But sutlers dure not sell it, nor wagons coming near bring it for sale, nor soldiers keep it in their tents; for if bottles are found in any of these cases, they are remorselessly smashed. . If liquor is smuggled in, and a soldier found intoxicated, he is put in the guardhouse; and if the offence is repeated, he is punished still more severely. Sobriety, therefore, is his name became familiar throughout the Church. the rule, intoxication the exception, in durvegiment and in those around us to which my observation has reached. And the present good effects of this are not only apparent throughout our camps, but men who were given to drink before they enlisted, have leaders in Georgia, and we now find his name, with in several cases, after being a couple of months here, three others, appended to an addres to the people of and finding the beneficial results of abstinence, declared that when discharged, they would drink no more * * * I am persuaded that every intelligent and really capable officer who has a pride in the good condition and efficiency of his regiment, regards a worthy chaplain's influence and work as a help, not a hindrance, to the elevation of its character. And where the chaplain respects himself, and does his work faithfully, attending to his own business. he will be respected, and find his > presence anything but an intrusion. Letters from Chaplains.—One says there have een twenty conversions in his regiment since he was connected with it. Another says he has 350 men in his regiment who are consistent followers of the Lord Jesus, and oftentimes suddenly some bold sinner is convicted and he comes to him inquiring what he shall do to be saved. Another says he has organized a church in his regiment, and on the pre-ceding Sabbath he received seven on profession of their faith in Christ. There is not one of these letters that does not speak in terms of great encouragement of what God is doing in the army. And all of them call in the most urgent manner for tracts, hymn books, Bibles, Testaments and religious reading. God is wonderfully blessing the means which are used for the conversion of the soldiers.
