Religious Intelligence.

Presbyterian. That venerable minister and revolutionary patriot, Rev. Daniel Waldo, who was chaplain of Congress...

Union of Presbyterians in New Brunswick. At a late meeting of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church...

That this Synod is not impressed with the existence of any insuperable obstacles in the way of union...

That the Convention and Committee be re-appointed, and instructed to prosecute the business entrusted to them.

These resolutions were received by the Synod with the utmost cordiality, and unanimously adopted.

Presbyterian Unity.—At the late meeting in Belfast of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Ireland...

There was in Wales a church called the Welsh Calvinistic Church, or the Calvinistic Methodist Church.

It had no connection whatever, historically or otherwise, with the great Wesleyan movement that arose in England in the last century.

It was to be traced to that great event which they were now commemorating—the revival of the ministers in 1652.

They formed themselves into unions, for the purpose of having ministrations according to the Word of God, and they devised a confession of faith for themselves...

many say, 'What is the use of embracing Christianity now, when it will certainly bring so much trouble? Let us wait: by and by all will be Christians, and then it will be easier.'

Indications of Good.—Southward of Hanover, in the Prussian territory, is the work of God steadily progressing.

Death of the Archbishop of Canterbury.—The late Foreign mails bring intelligence of the decease of the venerable Dr. Sumner, Archbishop of Canterbury...

Operations of the Church of Rome among the Greeks.—Says a Paris letter to a contemporary: 'The Holy Father takes the liveliest and kindest interest in Eastern affairs.'

First. That during the existing insurrection, and as a necessary measure for suppressing the same, that all rebels and insurgents, their aiders and abettors...

Second. That the writ of habeas corpus is suspended in respect to all persons arrested, or who are now or may hereafter during the rebellion be imprisoned...

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this twenty-fourth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

On the Potomac.—After compelling the rebel army to recross the Potomac into Virginia, which they did on Thursday and Friday the 18th and 19th...

The Hanover Catechism.—We conclude below what we have to say on this subject at present. As to the ground of these exertions, it is not the confessional tendency of the catechism...

It is understood that Surgeon General Hammond, who also returned from the field to-day, makes very nearly the same estimate, his variation from Col. Mearns's numbers being, in killed, some three hundred less, and in rebel wounded a somewhat greater amount.

Harper's Ferry, Sept. 25th, 1862.—Our forces completed, last night, the building of a pontoon bridge across the Potomac at this place, which is in good working order.

It is understood that Surgeon General Hammond, who also returned from the field to-day, makes very nearly the same estimate, his variation from Col. Mearns's numbers being, in killed, some three hundred less, and in rebel wounded a somewhat greater amount.

San Francisco.—There has been one Congressional church in that city for several years. It is a large and flourishing church; Rev. Mr. Lacey is the pastor.

The loss of the Rebels in the Second Battle of Bull Run.—Surgeon General Hammond has returned from the battle field between Manassas and Bull Run.

Encouraging Enlistments.—It is reported in one of our morning papers that on the afternoon last Thursday in Independence Square, a woman brought her husband to a recruiting tent...

The Naval.—Commander Preble of the blockading Squadron, off Mobile, has been summarily and disgracefully dismissed from the service for permitting a rebel gun-boat, built in England, to run into the harbor.

ate that it was his duty to go forth to fight the battle of truth; and when the news of the recent disaster to General Rosecrans had a severe battle at Iuka, Miss., Sept. 20th, with 15,000 rebels...

The South West.—A United States army corps under General Rosecrans had a severe battle at Iuka, Miss., Sept. 20th, with 15,000 rebels...

General Grant's report afterwards officially to General Halleck that he overrode our loss, and undisciplined that of the rebels, in the battle at Iuka. We lost less than 100 killed, and the enemy 251.

On the 30th of August, a series of remarkable actions commenced between our forces, and in the vicinity of Bolivar, much larger bodies of the enemy's cavalry, in which the western men repulsed the enemy's cavalry, covering themselves with glory.

The battle was of four hours' duration, at the end of which time the enemy left Col. Dennis in possession of the field, leaving one hundred and seventy-five of his men on the field, and was said to have been wounded.
