Disloyal Clergymen in New Orleans.-On Synod of Pittsburg, (O. S.) At a recent adopted a minute on the War in which Butler to the effect that the omission, in the service s of slavery as a guilty cause of our cala, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in New Orleans, ask :-- "But what would God have us of the prayer for the President of the United Sates we ameliorate the condition of the and others in authority, will be considered as evior emancipate them gradually: or at once dence of hostility to the Government of the United people go? Politicians claim this as their States. We also have our part to omit, but not to pray as "the Book " requires, and We must study and apply God's Word ; as the facts of their position dictate for President We submit that you have no right to regard as evidence of hostility to any government, a failure on our part to use a prayer which is not in our liturgy. We cannot use the liturgy of a Church to which we do not belong.

This repudiation of the Episcopal church in the United States, accords with a remark which has lately appeared in a Richmond paper. It says : "The Episcopal Convention of the Northern states have been giving themselves a good deal of trouble lately over the Church affairs of our states. The Confederate Episcopalians have completed the organization of a communion of their own, and will save the Northerners the trouble. The first General Council will meet in Augusta, Georgia, on the 12th of November next." On the 11th of October, one of Gen. Butler's aids attended St. Paul's church, and finding the prayer for the President omitted closed the church. The rector was arrested, and since then has been sent North with two of his fellow-clergymen to Fort Lafavette. The Bishop of Vermont and the editors of the Church Journal will find in these rectors, men nearly after their own heart, and will doubtless visit them in their affliction. The Governor elect of their release. The Episcopal Recorder, commenting on the transaction says: "It is perfectly clear that the clergy in New Orleans' consider themselves' as detached from our communion. It is perfectly clear that at present there are no ministers of the 'Episcopal Church in the United States' officiating in that city. In this view we must the more strongly deplore the remissness of the late General Convention, in omitting to supply the loyal citizens of Louisiana with a loyal ministry. Fortunately the omission is not fatal. We are far from disputing the right of the clergy named to abandon our communion. It is a right which the canons grant them : and we can only join in the prayer that they may go in peace. But it is clear that they cannot carry their church edifices and church endowments with them. Those belong to the Episcopal Church in the Quiet now reigns through the central United States, which these dergymen have left; and so it will be decided if the question ever comes up before a Federal court. USINUS 2002 Eller "But we are unwilling to anticipate an issue so painful. Another year, we may still hope, will bring back our wandering brethren; but, in the meantime, what is to be done? We see but one immediate remedy-the organizing of loyal congregations, to be served by loyal ministers. We have to look upon New Orleans in the same way as we lately did Paris, and establish in it United States chaplaincies, where worship can be maintained according to the rites of the Episcopal Church in the United 000 on the church and organ, have built and States.
