Correspondence.

MEETING TOGETHER OF THE RICH AND THE POOR.—IV. BY REV. E. E. ADAMS.

Let the rich remember also that their accountability is in proportion to their

If "it is accepted according to that a man hath," so that the poor can meet all the claims of God upon them, it is demanded according to that a man hath, in whatever form the talent exists. Beware then, lest when you are called to give an account of your stewardship, you be found to have kept for your pleasures and your pride that which belongs to God.

Remember that you have A MEANS OF GRACE which the poor have not. Giving with a right spirit is acceptable to God. "Bring all the tithes into the store-house." "Give, and it shall be given unto you." Giving increases the spirit of benevolence, which is the essential part and life of Christianity. Giving is Christ-like. If you have abundance, you are highly privileged. Multitudes covet the privilege. You ought to grow in grace by that one instrumentality, as really as by prayer and worship. It is worship; it acknowledges the divine bounty; it is an expression of praise to the great giver-the interest paid back to him on the princple which he has put into your hand, "who, though he was rich, yet for your sakes became poor; that ye, through his poverty, might be rich."

Let the rich especially strive against covetousness.

It is often the fact that men become selfish as their wealth increases. Their artificial wants multiply; they fix their purposes it by the love of position and social influence; by pride of talent for accumulation, forcing down their already enfebled benevolence, rnd forgetting the claims of God, they become old in selfishness, die with their treasures in their arms, and "MAM-MON" writtentall over their hearts.

Said a friend the other day—" I care not how much I give, for I must leave all soon." That is the true, noble Christian spirit. It will do for the death-bed.

A dying millionaire called for his money, and pressed it to his heart; then putting it from him, exclaimed: "No! it won't do! it won't do!" It did not quicken the lan- ness and of labor, or lends a healthful diguid current of life! It did not shed light | versity to the routine of life; anything that on the path to eternity! It gave no attrac- multiplies the pleasant memories of the past, tions to the grave! It rendered not easier or kindles up the beams of hope and gladthe pang of separation! It offered no price ness to cheer us in the future; anything for the assurance of heaven! No, it WILL either a penalty for their slothfulness, dis- warm and glowing; anything which puts a sipation, and folly, or a providential disci- salutary restraint upon the hurry and anxas that riches would be your ruin. They of the world imposes; anything that smooths would be like the gales which drive the the wrinkled front of grim-visaged care and ship upon the breakers. You need to be makes childhood, manhood and old age kept poor. Indeed, in poverty you may be unite in the same single joys, --- any usage immensly richer than those who possess millions. God may send the rich empty necessarily involving the excesses of away, while he pronounces "the little that | thoughtlessness or dissipation, may well a righteous man hath better than the riches of many wicked."

There are those who can say: "blessed be God that we are poor;" for to them the pressed as we all are by the mechanical and Spirit whispers: "Thou art rich." Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. God keeps all things under his own hands. He will govern. While, therefore, there is a law of success, of cause and effect, in the agencies of men, a man may, nevertheless, put forth the best instrumentality, and live a life of labor, of economy, and of godliness, yet be poor. "The race is not" always "to the swift, nor the battle to the strong." There is stimulus to activity, success enough to render man hopeful, but not such invariable connection between means and ends as to lead men to forget that God reigns, or to feel that this world is all.

Let not the poor envy the rich. There is no occasion for it. With wealth and station come apprehension and care. The emblem of Henry VIII. was a crown in a bush of thorns. It signified the agonies of royalty. Many a rich man is wretched through fear of robbery or failure. "A dreadful sound is in his ears." In imagination, he is begging for bread-crying,-"Where is it." The poor who envy the rich would be vastly happier but for that folly. Much of their suspicion is unfounded. The rich do not despise them, do not oppress them half as much as they imagine. The evil they feelso deeply cannot cease to desire the welfare of his is in their own hearts — a mere fiction often. While, therefore, we say to the rich: 'rob not the poor because he is poor,-neither oppress him, we would also say to the poor: "Curse not the rich in thy bed-chamber," - for the Lord is Maker of both. He not only created you, but He makes you rich or poor as He sees best. You may be happier, stronger, greater for penury. Socrates-with nothing but his mind and heart—was greater than Cæsar with the world at his feet. Paulwith his religion, his faith, and his chains, ceived that gift from the infinite Benefac- done. stood higher than Agrippa or his throne.

built the pyramids? Who composed the on earth should bestow the brightest jewel armies of Alexander, and of Rome? Who in his crown upon his meanest subject, it gained our independence? Who have sus- would be nothing in comparison with the the Thames? Who constructs our bridges equally exalted by that adoption which the present holidays. But we fear it has and our railways? Whose hands now war for us? Whose hearts bleed for us. Ah, the warfare, the architecture, the commerce and the arts of all time are monuments of labor and suffering. They tell us what the poor have done.

What is Gettysburg,-whose Cemetery was recently consecrated by the presence of greatness, by oratory and song, by prayers and tears-but an eloquent vindication of our devoted, loyal poor, who laid down their lives for the wealth, for the happiness, and for the immortality of their country?

Let the poor remember the example of poverty in Christ. There is no shame in penury, but only in sin. If the Lord of glory "had not where to lay his head," shall a sinner complain? Not one of us was half as poor as Jesus.

GIFTS.

BY REV. DANIEL MARCH. We have passed once more the happy season when many hearts are gladdened by gifts. Countless homes have been brightened by a more cheering light than that of of a bank for safe keeping, I could not the sun. Countless family circles have echoed to the music of youthful voices that donor by showing it to my friends and visineeded no master's art to teach them the most touching expression of gladness and gratitude. The festive season imparts the sess it at all. glow of feeling to the grasp of the hand and the glance of the eye, and the tone of the voice, as friends meet and invoke muon a certain standard; they are pressed to tual blessings upon each other. The forthgushing fountain of kindly emotion, fills up the furrows that care has ploughed upon or by the pure love of enterprise, and clo- the aching brow, washes out the record sing their hearts against appeals, violently that sorrow has written on the heart, breaks down the barrier of reserve and formality, and makes strangers friends, lifts the burden of years and infirmity from the aged and the feeble, and constrains all classes to confess that they have one heart, and a common humanity.

And whatever excesses and perversions may attend this custom of bestowing gifts at a particular season, there is much to be said in favor of its appropriate observance. Anything that alleviates the dark hours of human sorrow, lightens the burdens of busithat guards the heart against the hardening influence of the world, keeps our early sus-Let the poor accept their condition. It is ceptibilities alive and our young affections cline. God may see in you such a spirit liety and weariness which the hard service or anniversary which does all that, without receive the sanction of our most sacred convictions and the approbation of the most serious and cultivated minds. Severely common-place routine of secular duties, we cannot afford to lose any influence or custom which strengthens social ties, cultivates kindly feeling and adds grace, beauty and attraction to domestic life.

And besides, the season has higher lessons and more sacred associations for our instruction. While friends are gladdening the hearts of friends with tokens of remembrance, while parents are vieing with each other in the bestowment of good gifts upon their children, and trifling favors call forth the most fervid expressions of delight and gratitude, it is appropriate for us to ask how many thanks we owe to our heavenly Father for his "unspeakable gift." He looks upon us in our helpless and guilty state with infinite tenderness and pity. He does not cease to give because we have misimproved what he has already bestowed. He does not cease to love us because we have wronged him. An afflicted mother once said, "I used to think that if my children became bad I should give them up. But I find I cannot cease to love them." And God speaks like a human parent when he says of his disobedient and wayward chidren, "how shall I give thee up!" He gives and continues to give, because he

The most trifling gift becomes precious when it testifies the love and worth of the giver. Every blessing which we receive from our heavenly Father speaks to us of infinite excellence and infinite love. But his one "unspeakable gift" of eternal life. bestowed upon the unworthy and the guilty, illustrates every attribute of his divine nature and covers his throne with such a new and surprising glory as that angels wonder and adore while they gaze. To have retor, will be a mark of distinction, and a done without the poor? Whose hands ever and ever. If the greatest sovereign tained commerce? Who piled up the dome honor which God confers upon the chiefest of St. Peter's, and the towers of Milan and of sinners, by offering him the gift of eter-Westminister? Who cut the tunnel under nal life. The lowest and the highest are makes them the children of God.

Some gifts cost an enormous price and yet have very little intrinsic or personal value. The coronation robe formerly worn by the kings of the Hawaiian Islands, cost an amount of labor that would have earned a million of dollars, and yet the robe itself was of less real value than a soldier's blanket. Some gifts are among the most brilliant and beautiful things of earth, and yet would be adapted to the wants and circumstances of very few persons. I visited the Tower of London to see the jewels of the British crown. They showed me a diamond which they said was worth more than a million of dollars. I asked myself what I could do with that gem if the English sovereign or government should bestow it en me as a mark of favor and distinction. I could not sell it, that would be dishonorable. I could not wear it on my person in the street, that would expose me to robbery death every hour. If I kept it in my house I should need a guard of soldiers to procect it night and day. If I sent it to the vault suitably acknowledge the generosity of the tors. And if I concealed it from every eve but my own, it would be as if I did not pos-

The one pearl of infinite price, which God bestows as a free wift upon every be-lieving soul, is equally precious to all souls, at all times. It can be worn in all places on all occasions with safety and honor to and daily use, in any occupation, any position in society. No power on earth can take happy. It can heal the deepest sorrows of the heart, remove the dreadful sense of guiltiness and danger, and cover the pathway of life with light and blessing. It can enable the most unworthy to look up to God with the love and confidence of a grateful child, and to feel themselves safe and happy in any place, at any time, because they feel that God is near. It can teach the most afflicted to find new reasons for gratitude and praise every day, every yearof life, and when they draw near to death and the eternal world, still to move on with hope and joy, as the little child when weary comes home to rest in his father's house and his mother's bosom.

FROM OUR ROCHESTER CORRE-SPONDENT.

happy New Year, your correspondent would most sincerely congratulate you on the enlargement of your "sphere" of incongratulated on receiving so much more in the double sheet for their money. They ing to please and satisfy all, thus to enprices go up, even while papers grow less. But it is about time somebody inaugurated a better example, and we do not know of any one who has a better right than your-

But somehow your modest correspondent is a little appalled by the change, for fear you may be expecting fuller and better letters from this region. Indeed, you have already most presumptuously promised as much, in your glowing prospectus; and it is plain to see that you mean to lay the responsibility directly upon these little shoulders of ours. Well, if we must, we must; and we have been trying to gird ourselves to the effort. But how fortunate that one may get help now and then in a good! cause. Argus had a hundred eyes; and we have just as many, if we can get fifty good and reliable persons to help us see what is going on in all this part of the country. So as you have promised, we must try to perform; and so we will try to climb a litscouts a little farther out, and gather and sift the intelligence of the kingdom as well as we can.

THE FESTIVITIES AGAIN. desire first to recur again to the festivities of the last. We merely mentioned the

We understand that at the Third Pres, those who are worthy, and none such are And what have the great and rich ever reason for proclaiming his beneficence for byterian church of this city, a similar med turned empty away.

thod was pursued, only, as our friends of the Emerald Isle would say, each basket consisted of a neat paper box, properly tied, and well filled with nick-nacks. The children had a good time in all this region We doubt if there has been in many years as much innocent merry-making as within not been just exactly so down in Dixie. We don't believe rebellion promotes joyousness of spirit.

A THING HANDSOMELY DONE.

To the credit of the 1st Presbyterian church of this city, it may be mentioned that they have been in no indecent haste to call a successor to their late pastor, the peloved and still lamented Dr. Pease. They have waited four months. The church has been draped in black until the last Sabbath. And what is more to their credit, they have made a handsome provision for the family of their deceased; having secured to the widow a thousand dollars a year for three years to come. Other friends have purchased for her a house; and so she still dwells here among those who loved and admired her husband so much.

All these matters being thus admirably arranged, the church is prepared to act, with self-respect and becoming dignity, in the calling of another pastor. And now also their good sense does not forsake them. They have not been hearing forty candidates in as many Sabbaths; they have not heard one; but being satisfied, by committee and otherwise, that Rev. Dr. Dixon, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church in Baltimore was precisely the man they wanted, they have extended to him a unanimous call, offering a salary of $2,500; and they have great hope that they shall be able to obtain him. If we had his ear, we should love to say to him, that he might the possessor. It can be put to practical go a great way, and not find a church that better knew how to treat their minister than this does; or a more pleasant, importhat treasure from the weakest man alive tant, and promising field of labor. If he against his will. It is precious enough to is the man they suppose him to be, we sinmake the poorest rich, and the most wretched | cerely hope that he will listen favorably to their call.

OTHER CALLS.

Rev. E. P. Gardner, a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, and licentiate of the 3d Presbytery of New York, has been for a year past, preaching as stated supply to the Presbyterian church at Cherry Valley. He has given good satisfaction, and his labors have been blest quite recently in something of quickening, about a dozen, as it is supposed, having passed from death unto life. The church have also extended a formal call to Mr. Gardner, which he has accepted, and he is soon to be ordained and installed.

We learn also that Rev. A. Erdman, a graduate of Hamilton College, class of 1853, and recent chaplain of the 146th Regiment, New York Vols., has received and accepted a call to the Congregational church in Clinton, and is to enter upon the duties of the pastorate on the second Sabbath of January. And Rev. D. D. McColl, fluence and usefulness. We think the pastor of the Presbyterian church, (O. S.) readers of the Presbyterian may also be in Scottsville, has received a call to the church of the same connection in Bath. And as we are speaking of personalities certainly must give you credit for attempt. we are also pleased to state that the Presbyterian church of Rome have added five large the paper, and not the price. Surely hundred dollars to the salary of their pasthis is something strange for these times; tor. Rev. W. E. Knox, thereby com-We are more accustomed just now to see plimenting themselves not less than they do their able and excellent minister.

A REVIVAL CONTINUED.

We were permitted to speak once or twice in the summer of a powerful revival of religion as in progress in New Hartford, under the faithful and earnest labors of Rev. C. C. Kimball. All that love Zion will rejoice to know that the work still continues with unabated power. The hearts of pastor and people are cheered by the recent bowing of some of the strong ones to King Emanuel. May the work never cease until they are all gathered in.

AUBURN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

The catalogue of this our honored school of the prophets is published, and gives the names of fifty-five students; twenty-five in the senior class, fifteen in the middle, and fourteen in the junior; which indicates a higher degree of prosperity, as compared with the condition of the Seminary but a few years since. One of the most protle higher on our watch-tower, send our mising members, however, of the senior class, beloved and respected by all, has recently deceased, and he was a colored man. In this institution, now in such fine working condition. there is no charge made for But we need not go far for some matters room-rent or tuition, and those who need of special interest this week, although we it, can receive aid from the Seminary fund, and from the General Assembly's Education Committee, for their personal expenses. Christmas festivals then in progress. That There is but one vacation in the year, (exat the Brick church was very fine, consist- cept a short recess during the winter holiing of singing by the school, prayer, and days,) commencing early in May and conaddresses. beside a thousand neat little tinuing until the first Wednesday in Septembaskets filled with cakes and candies. The ber. During these summer months the eating was not done in the chapel; but af- earnest and enterprising student can often ter the public exercises were concluded, find also some genial employment, which each child was furnished with one of these | shall put him in funds to help him through little baskets to carry away. It was neatly the rest of the year. Everything, indeed, is arranged so as to help and encourage

A WORD MORE OF BUFFALO.

Rev. Dr. Heacock's, have just raised a thousand dollars by a fair, to finish paying for the upholstering of the new church. On Wednesday evening of this week the children of the Sabbath school in the same church were entertained in a Christmas festival. Speeches and singing and eating, and a crowded assembly of happy little ones, were the "order" of the evening. And on New Year's day it is arranged by the colored people of Buffalo to have a grand celebration of the proclamation of freedom to the slaves of the United States, issued one year ago. There are to be religious services in the forenoon, in St. James' Hall, in which Rev. Drs. Lord, Smith, Heacock, and others are to participate; speeches of civilians are to occupy the afternoon; and an oration by Frederick Douglass is to come off in the evening. They mean to have a grand rejoicing over that great boon of freedom which a kind Providence has so marvellously brought to their brethren, and these worthy pastors and other citizens are not ashamed to rejoice with them.

PERSONAL.

Luther Calvin Saxton, the gigantic swindler of Mr. Champion, after a fair and impartial trial, in which he managed his own defence with all the shrewdness and ability which enabled him to concoct such magnificent frauds, has been convicted, and sentenced to hard labor in Auburn State prison for the term of three years, the full tered upon broader plans of more thorough extent of the law; and so is likely to find after all that the way of transgressors is

Rev. Mr. Ellinwood of this city, and Rev. Mr. Niles of Albion, have both been quite unwell and unable to preach much for some six weeks past, and similarly affected, with severe cold, cough and hoarseness; but we are happy to report both as now improving, and their friends hope soon to see them in their wonted places of labor. Both will be very welcome back to their pulpits, by many warm friends and admirers, just as soon as restored health will safely permit.

GENESEE, Rochester, Dec. 31st., 1863.

Mews of our Churches

E. J. Gillett, D. D., has accepted a cal from the Church in Keokuk, Iowa. Rev. Alfred Eddy, late Pastor of the Pesbyterian Church in Bloomington, is now in charge of the Olivet Church, Chicago. The Central Church in Broome street,

New York, has given a unanimous call to Rev. James B. Dunn, who has been the stated supply for more than a year. Mr. Dunn has accepted the call and is soon to be installed.

This honored Church has been pros pered in spiritual thir s, fifty or sixty having united with it during the last

New Church Edifice.—The First Presbyterian Church of Baldwinsville, N. Y.. under the pastoral care of Rev. J. F. Kendall, propose to erect a new Church edifice the coming Summer. The structure is to be of brick, with lecture-room in rear; and all paid for when dedicated. Some men have subscribed what they suppose all their increase of property will be for three or four years to come.

the Central Presbyterian Church, Des Moines, Iowa, for nineteen years, was installed Pastor by Des Moines Presbytery, Dec. 23d, 1863.

Sermon by Rev. C. J. Slack of Newton. Rev. J. C. Erving, of Winterset. presided, and proposed the constitutional questions. Installing prayer by Rev. J. M. Chamberlain, of the Congregational church. Charge to the Pastor, by Rev. Rev. J. A. Nash, of the Baptist Church. Charge to the people by Rev. Fisk Har. mon, Swede Point.

PAY YOUR PASTOR.

MR. EDITOR:-We have read with pleasure, recently, in your columns, that several of the churches in this vicinity, appreciating the extra wants of their pastors, have made them "presentation visits," in which hundreds of dollars, and many other valuables were given. This is all very well, but it may be proper to call attention also to the cases of some pastors less fortunate, who would be satisfied could they obtain from their churches only the full amount of their salaries—small at

As these "presentation visits" from the liberal churches cannot be made without an extra effort, it is certainly not too much to ask the delinquent churches to make an extra effort to pay the arrears due to their pastors. In these pressing times, when the tendency of every thing is upwards, excepting the salary of the minister, he needs all that is promised him, and to have it punctually paid.

Who will move in this matter? We should like much to see an article in your columns running something like this:-"The churches of A., B., C., and D. have The ladies of the Lafayette St. church, recently made successful efforts to pay all arrears due to their pastors, and have resolved that, for the future, they will be punctual in paying his salary as soon as it is due."

Philadelphia, January 1st, 1864.

U. S. CHRISTIAN COMMISSION.

THANKS FOR THANKSGIVING-DAY CONTRIBU-

The United States Christian Commission desires publicly to express its gratitude to the ministers and churches of all the loyal States for the many generous Thanksgiving-day contributions received in response to its appeal.

From day to day they still come in, and already there has been received at the various offices of the Commission, East and West, eighty-three thousand four hundred dollars. Many churches had already contributed several times before. Many others so recently as not to think best to make collections on Thanksgiving-day otherwise the amount, large as it is, would have been much greater.

This evinces that the people are not growing poor, illiberal, forgetful of those who battle for their country, or cold in their love to God or the government he has given us. It is also most gratifying evidence of the confidence of the people in the Commission, as a wise, efficient, economical agency for benefiting our national defenders in body and soul.

With the enlarged means contributed. and with the assurance that the warm hearts and generous hands that have bestowed them will not cease, but increase their liberality, the Commission has enwork, and will send more delegates, more stores and more reading matter, than ever before. Not less than one hundred and twenty men, who can both minister to the sick and wounded, and preach the gospel, will be kept constantly in commission in the Armies of the Potomac and of the Cumberland, besides all sent to all the other military departments and naval stations. This will quire many more volunteers for the delegate service, and greatly increased contributions of money and stores to fill their hands with good things for mind and body to bestow upon our brave men.

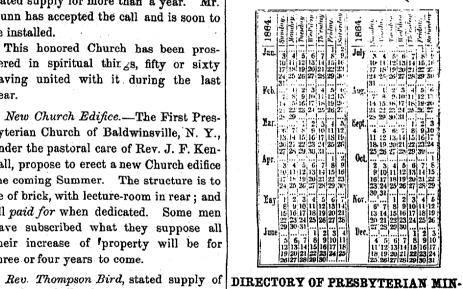

Whilst, therefore, we most heartily thank our bounteous benefactors for all they have given, we must at the same time make our appeal for more delegates and more money and stores. This winter will afford opportunity for preaching the gospel to our soldiers while in winter quarters, and of cheering them for duty to themselves, to God, and the country, and of bringing the influences of home and friends to bear upon them for their present and eternal salvation, greater and better than has ever occurred before or may ever offer again. Give us therefore, now your help, we beseech you, and may God's blessing rest upon you!

By order of the Executive Committe.

GEO. H. STUART, Chairman.

W. E. BOARDMAN, Secretary.

ISTERS AND CHURCHES OF PHILADELPHIA.

1
	PRESENTERIAN HOUSE,	1334 Chestnut Street.
	NAMES OF MINISTERS AND CHURCCHES.	RESIDENCES AND LOCATIONS.
	ADAMS, E. E. N. Broad Street Church. ADAIR, ROBERT	1632 Mount Vernon St. Sp. Garden and 13th Sts. Norristown.
	Asst. Sec. II. M. Com. BARNES, ALBERT 1st Church.	Presbyterian House. 1255 South Eighth St.
	BARNES, A. HENRY BERRIDGE, LEEDS K Chaplain U. S. Hospital.	Wash. Sq., cor. Seventh St. 221 South Ninth St. 31st above Baring St.
	BLYTHE, JOHN O BRAINERD, T., D. D., 3d Church.	Linden St. Germantown.
	BROWN, CHARLES Sec. Philada. Ed. Society.	Fourth and Pine Ste. Spruce above 40th, W. P. Presbyterian House.
	BRUEN, EDWARD B. BUTLER, JAMES G. Walnut St. Church, W. P.	1531 Chestnut St. Chestnut ab. 40th, W. P. Walnut St. ab. 39th.
	Carto, W.M. T 2d African Church. Cox, Gro. W	St. Mary St above 6th. 1041 Beach Street. Darby.
	CULVER, ANDREW	Green Lane, Manayunk. Manayunk.
	DARLING, HENRY, D. D DULLES, JOHN W Sec. Presb. Pub. Com. EVA. W. T. 1st Church, Kensington.	Germantown. Chestnut above 10th W P
	EVA, W. T.  1st Church, Kensington.  HELFFENSTEIN, J'B. D. D.	Presbyterian House. 1116 Columbia Av., East. Girard Av. near Hanover St., Germantown.
	HELFFENSTEIN, J'B-, D.D Market House Sq. Church. HENDRICKS, FRANCIS Kenderton Church.	Tioga St. above 17th.
	HENDRICKS, FRANCIS - Kenderton Church, JOHNSTON, THOS. S Mantua Church, W. P. MALIN, DAVID, D. D MALLORY, Riogh. A Twelfth Church.	Sycamore and 36th, W. P. 6th and Bridge Sts., W. P. 1614 Chestnut St.
		919 South 15th St, South St. above 11th. 822 Pine Street.
	Clinton St. Church. McCaskie, James South-western Church.	10th St. below Spruce. 425 South 20th St. Fitzwater and 20th Sts.
	McLeod, John Sec. A. B. C. F. M. Mears, John W	Reeseville, Pa. Presbyterian House. 300 N. 18th Street.
	Ed. Am. Presbyterian, Miller, Jeremias - Phila. Sab. Association. Mitchell, Jas. Y Central Church, N. L.	Presbyterian House. 1106 Callowhill St.
	MITCHELL, JAS. Y. Central Church, N. L. NEILL, E. D.	1033 North 5th St. Coates St. above Third. 2319 Green Street.
	NEILL, E. D. Chaplain U. S. Hospitals. PATTON, JOHN, D. D., Logan Square Church.	1621 Summer Street. 20th and Vine Sts.
	Lombard St. Cent. Church	11th and Race Sts. Lombard above 8th St. 824 N. Broad.
	ROBBINS, FRANK L Green Hill Church. SHEPHERD, THOMAS J Ist Church, N. L.	Girard Av. above 16th St 507 Brown Street. Buttonwood below 6th St
	SMITH, CHARLES A., D. D. SMITH, H. AUGUSTUS TAYLOR, W. W. Olivet Church. V. V. Taylor	1530 Arch Street
	Olivet Church. VAN DEURS, GEORGE Tabor Church.	2021 Wallace Street. 22d and Mt. Vernon Sts 250 S. Juniper St.
	CALVARY CHURCH FIRST CHURCH MISSION SOUTHWARK OFURCH	17th and Fitzwater Sts. Locust above 15th St. 9th and Wharton Sts. German above 3d Squeet.
		17th and Filbert Sts.

Reformed Presbyterian ministers next week.