Aews of the Week. THE WAR.

GIVE GLORY TO THE LORD!!!

The rebel army of Northern Virginia is no more. Its brilliant but treason-stained leader is, by his parole, incapacitated from taking any further part in the rebellion, until properly exchanged, which we suppose means until the rebels have in their hands for exchange a Union lieutenant-general.

On the 9th inst. General Lee, without fighting, surrendered to General Grant the entire army of Northern Virginia, which, as our readers well know, composed the main strength of the rebellion. This surrender may be regarded as the virtual extinction of the pretended Confederate Government. We give the substance of the negotiations attending the surrender.

April 7, General Grant wrote to General Lee as tollows:-"General: the result of the last week must convince you of the hopelessness of further resistance on the part of the Army of Northern Virginia in this struggle. I feel that it is so, and regard it as my duty to shift from myself the responsibility of any further effusion of blood by asking of you the surrender of that portion of the C. S. Army known as the Army of Northern Virginia." On the same day General Lee replied:—"General: I have received your note of this date. Though not entirely of the onlying you appraise of the headtirely of the opinion you express of the hopelessness of further resistance on the part of the Army of Northern Virginia, I reciprocate your desire to avoid useless effusion of blood, and, therefore, before considering your proposition, ask the terms you will offer on condition of its surrender.

April 8, Grant replied to the above that there was but one condition on which he would insist, viz.: That the men surrendered should be disqualified for taking up arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged. He added :- "I will meet you, or designate officers to meet any officers you may name, for the same purpose, at any point agree able to you, for the purpose of arranging defi-nitely the terms upon which the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia will be re-Lee replied on the same day:--" did not intend to propose the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, but to ask the terms of your propositions. To be frank, I do not think the emergency has arisen to call for the surrender of this army; but as the restoration of peace should be the sole object of all, desire to know whether your proposals would tend to that end. I cannot, therefore, meet you with a view to surrender the Army of Northern Virginia; but as far as your proposi-tions may affect the Confederate States forces under my command, and tend to the restoration of peace, I should be pleased to meet you at ten (10) A. M. to-morrow on the old stage road to Richmond, between the picket lines of the two armies.

April 9, Grant replied to Lee's note of yesterday:—"As I have no authority to treat on the subject of peace, the meeting proposed for ten A. M. to-day could lead to no good. I will state, however, General, that I am equally anxious for peace with yourself, and the whole North entertain the same feeling. The terms upon which peace can be had are well understood. By the South laying down their arms they will hasten that most desirable event, save thousands of human lives and hundreds of millions of property not yet destroyed. Sincerely hoping that all our difficulties may be settled without the loss of another life, I subscribe myself," &c. This forced from the robel leader reply in which he did propose to surrender his army. "I now," he wrote, "request an interview, in accordance with the offer contained in Grant's fuller detail of the conditions of the surrender next follow. They are dated at Appomattox C. H., April 9, 1865, and are as follows:—"Rolls of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate, one copy to be given to an officer designated by me, the other to be retained by such officer or officers as you may designate, the officers to give their individual paroles not to take arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged, and each company or regimental commander to sign a like parole for the men of their commands. The arms, artillery, and public property to be parked and stacked and turned over to the officers appointed by me to receive them. This will not embrace the side arms of the officers nor their private horses or baggage. This done, each officer and man will be allowed to return to their homes, not to be disturbed by United States authority so long as they observe their parole and the laws in force where they may reside." The following note from Lee brought the correspondence to a satisfactory close:—

"Head-quarters Army N. Virginia,) 9th April, 1865. \\
"Lieut.-Gen. U. S. Grant, Commanding U.

S. Army: General: I have received your letter of this date, containing the terms of surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, as proposed by you. As they are substantially the same as those expressed by you in your letter of the 8th instant, they are accepted. I will proceed to designate the proper officers to carry the stipulations into effect.

"Very respectfully, your obedient servant, R. E. LEE. On the afternoon of the day the surrender was formally made, and many a poor rebel sol-dier undoubtedly felt himself better out of the scrape than he expected.

MISCELLANEOUS. ACCIDENT TO SECRETARY SEWARD. — The Secretary of State received a severe injury, on the afternoon of the 5th inst., by jumping from a carriage while the horses were running When taken from the ground he was insensible, but soon recovered his consciousness. Surgeons were immediately in attendance, and on examination his right arm was found broken a little below the shoulder, and his jaw fractured. His son and two ladies of the family were in the same carriage, but escaped uninjured. The Secretary, we are happy to add, is recovering. THE ENTRANCE INTO PETERSBURGH. - The Mayor of the town met the troops as they en-tered, and handed to the officers commanding the following communication, offering the surrender of the city:

"To Lieutenant General Grant, commanding the armies of the United States, or the Major-General commanding the forces in front of Petersburg:

"GENERAL: The city of Petersburg having been evacuated by the Confederate troops, we, a committee authorized by the Common Council, do hereby surrender the city to the United cil, do nerely surremore the chy to the States forces, with a request for the protection of the persons and property of its inhabitants. "We are, respecti"y, your obedient servants, W. W. Towns, Mayor.

D'ARCY PAUL

CHARLES T. COLLIER.
PETERSBURG, April 3, 1865. Protection was promised on the part of the troops, and certainly there is no instance on record where an army, after lying so long in front of a place of so much importance, and losing so many men in the effort to capture it, entered a city with less disorder, and doing less damage to private property than in this case.

The citizens did not show themselves during the forepart of the day, but after discovering that our soldiers were orderly and well behaved, with no disposition to disturb or annoy any one, they made their appearance at the doors and windows of their residences, and later in the day even entering familiarly into conversation, many expressing their joy quietly that the This wine can be had of our druggists.

'Confeds' had gone, and hoping that the war would soon be over. RICHMOND—THE ENTRY AND OCCUPATION. The colored troops, headed by General Draper, of Massachusetts, were the first to enter Richmond. The city was formally surrendered by the Mayor, Joseph Mayo, who merely pleaded for protection to life and property. All the principal buildings had been fired by the rebel authorities before leaving. Several banks, and the Enquirer and Dispatch printing offices were burned. General Weitzel took Jeff. Davis' house for his head-quarters. General Shepley was appointed Military Governor. Governor Pierrepont is to transfer the State Government of Virginia to Richmond from Alexandria immediately. CARRYING OUT THE REBEL PLAN.—Secretary Stanton, the moment Richmond fell, sent General Silas Casey there to commence the military organization of the colored men for the defence of the city and the manning of the forts. If additional authority is needed for this proceeding, a very good law can be found in the "Confederate" statute books, which provides for the enrolment of these same people.

Secretary Stanton did another very odd thing. Shortly after the Union prisoners were et loose from the foul dens of Libby-the rebel Bastile and Black Hole—he turned into that hospitable retreat as many of the "Confedprisoners as were out April house-hunting.—Press.

Exit of Jeff. Davis.—The correspondent of The Tribune describes it in this wise:—At 11½ o'clock Sunday morning, while seated in his pew at church, listening to the Rev.*Dr. Hoge, Jeff. Davis was handed a dispatch from General Lee. Thereupon he instantly arose, and walked hurriedly down the aisle, beneath the questionings of all the eyes in the house. of The Tribune describes it in this wise :- At The dispatch was to the effect that Richmond must be evacuated during the coming night.
And so his ex-Excellency, the late President of the late Confederacy, went forth from the sanctuary to pack up his "portable property" in hasty preparation for a journey on the Sabbath day. Like a thief in the night, he stole away with trepidation and fear, and with an agonizing sense of the shortness of time. As the preacher closed the services, the colored sexton handed him a note from his ex Excel-lency. The face of the preacher waxed sickly vith despair, while that of the sexton glowed with joy too great for concealment. The cha-grin of the one was quite as marked as the grin of the other. The former begged his congregation to tarry, and told them in sad utter-ances that he did not expect to minister to them any more. His farewell over, he too proceeded furiously to the packing of "portable property"—he also intended to journey on the Sabbath. This Dr. Hoge, it will be remembered, visited England two years ago, ostensibly to procure a supply of Bibles, but really an emissary of the rebellion. He was largely feted by the British adherents of the South, and loubtless did much harm. Since his return he has been in the habit of making camp speeches, full of hot unction, and perorated with presumptuous appeals to the God of Battles.

NORTH CAROLINA. FROM SHERMAN'S ARMY.—Newbern advices to March 27, say that this army is still at rest at Goldsboro, and that thousands of those who have recovered from sickness are rejoining it. The enemy is quiet, though much demoralized and desertion is the order of the day. Citizens all along our line, and from a great distance in the interior, are continually coming in of their own accord to take the oath of allegiance, and appear to be greatly disappointed if they can-not be accommodated. They come faster than convenience allows. Great distress exists among them for want of clothing and other necessaries. The people of Goldsboro gave our troops a most cordial welcome upon their our troops a most cordial welcome upon their entrance, and greatly rejoiced over their arrival. The same feeling exists throughout the State. If the people of North Carolina are kindly treated, and their generosity and confidence in us is appreciated, and their present urgent nocessities relieved, the State will at once return to the Union.

From Newbern, April 1, we learn that a detachment from General Reilly's command was sent out on a reconnoissance vesterday beyond sent out on a reconnoissance yesterday beyond Little river. They found the enemy's cavalry in considerable force, but drove them back some three miles, returning without any loss. The rebel forces are north of Tar river.

LATEST-TUESDAY.

April 5, Sheridan made another attack upon army of Lee (which surrendered on l the 9th), and captured a thousand prisoners, six guns, and a mile of wagon train, together. six guns, and a mile of wagon train, together with the drivers. Five of the guns were new, and of the Armstrong pattern, said to have been a present from the English Government to the Confederacy. They are a beautiful specimen of manufacture. This occurred between Amelia C. H. and Jetersville.

The fragments of the rebel Va. legislature are considering a proposition from Mr. Lincoln—said to be very liberal—for the formal return of the State to the Union.—Among the speeches made in Washington in the rejoicings over Lee's made in Washington in the rejoicings over Lee's surrender, was a very brief one by the President, in which he called for the tune "Dixie" from the band, saying:—"I had heard that our adversaries over the way had attempted to appropriate it. I insisted yesterday we had fairly captured it. [Cheers and laughter.] I presented the question to the Attorney General, and he gave his opinion that it is our lawful prize. [Laughter and cheers]. I ask the band to give us a good turn upon it."

GEN. BUTLER'S speech was very sensible. He recommended that all the leaders shall be disfranchised and disqualified for holding any position under the Government, but the masses, including the negroes, should have the right of citizenship. The address was loudly applauded.—Gen. Steele had moved north from Pensacola, toward Mobile, and had captured March 25, the rebel General Clinton, mortally wounded, two railway trains at Evergreen, and tore up the track at Evergreen and Pollard, on the Montgomery road.—The railroad running from Petersburg to Burkesville is being rapidly repaired. Supplies will be forwarded to Grant's Army over this road.—Jeff. Davis was in Danville on April 3.—All the St. Albans' raiders except one, were finally discharged, April 10, at Toronto.

one hundred pieces of improved light artillery, five hundred wagons and teams with a large amount of ammunition, were obtained by Gen. Grant by the capitulation of Lee. The impression is, that Lee had not over 25,000 men left

The Secretary of State has, by proclamation, offered a reward of one thousand dollars each for the capture of raiders entering the country from foreign territory and committing capital felonies; also a reward of five hundred dollars for the like capture of any of their abettors, the reward to be paid on conviction of the offenders.—Fortress Monroe dispatches say of a large arrival of pilgrims from the South at that place:—"The condition of these refugees is of the most distressing nature—many of them being encumbered with numerous children, barefooted and ragged, and the greater number totally devoid of even a change of clothing. totally devoid of even a change of clothing. They were taken charge of by the provost marshal, and will be sent north in a few days."

CHILTON & Co., NEW YORK, March 11, 1861.—We have recently made a careful analysis of the Samburg Port Wine, prepared by Mr. Alfred Speer, and do not hesitate in pronouncing it pure; it contains all properties of the Samburg or Port grape and therefore, for medicinal uses it is su-

106 00 now offered by the Government, and it is confidently expected that its superior advantages will make it the 113 00 GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.
Less than $50,000,000 remain unsold, which will probably be disposed of within the next 14 days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. After the exhaustion of this first issue the sale will continue upon a new issue in which the privilege of convertibility will not occur at so early a date as in this now on the market.

In order that citizens of every town and sections of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be resposible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.
