The Bible finds its way to those far off places, and little companies of Christians are gathered, who, increasing in number, soon build places of worship, and form their church government according to what they understand from the teachings of the New Testament. GEO. SCOTT, S. C.

Sept 8, 1868-3t.

DR. DUFF ON THE STUART CASE.

The suspension of Mr. Geo. H. Stuart has elicited numerous letters from some of the most distinguished ministers and laymen in Great Britain as well as in America. Among them, none is more worthy of attention than the following from Rev. Dr. Alexander Duff. The high position of the writer, one of the most eminent missionaries of our own or any age, and the full acquaintance which, as a minister of the Free Church of Scotland, he has with the subject of Presbyterian worship and discipline, give great value to his opinion in regard to this matter. It will be observed, that he takes precisely the ground which Mr. S. has taken, and for which, ostensibly at least, the attempt has been made to dishonor him before the world by ecclesiastical censure.

In this community, where he has long been so highly loved and honored, as well as in other parts of the world where he is so extensively and so favorably known, Mr. Stuart has been elevated in public estimation by the proceedings of the Synod against him. At his special and urgent request, we omit the publication of portions of Dr. Luff's letter, in which he expresses his own respect and love, and the feelings of British Chris-

11 BLENHEIM TERRACE,

SCARBOROUGH, July 29th, 1868. My DEARLY BELOVED FRIEND-My having been on the Continent for three months, and the heavy pressure of urgent matters demanding immediate atention on my return, will account for my long si-can keen silence no longer. Several Ameri can papers have reached me, conveying the most astounding intelligence—intelligence which filled me with surprise and dumb amazement.

What my revered and honored friend * * * * * actually suspended from Church ordinances and Church fellowship! The first announcement of this intelligence seemed really to cut my breath. Why, I would as soon expect to find it recorded in history, that George Washington, the Father of his Country, had been suspended from his Presidential functions by the Congress and Senate of the United States, or to open my eyes to-morrow and find it declared in the public journals that, to-day, our own beloved Queen Victoria, had been suspended from her Roval functions by the Lords and Commons of Great Bri-

What, thought I, could be the cause of such an unexpected event? What awful catastrophe can have befallen my friend? Had he been suddenly overtaken by some grievous fault? Had he beer caught and overmastered by some resistless temptation? No! No! It could not be. Such a character as his * * * * would not, in the nature of things, be thus suddenly shattered! What, then, could have been the provocative cause of such a humiliating measure, as that of suspension from Church or dinances, and that, too, by the highest ecclesiastical authority of the body of which he has so long been among the leading and foremost lay members

Judge, then, of my fresh surprise, but unspeakable relief, when I found that the criminal offence—the ecclesiastical or spiritual scandal on account of which my beloved friend was thus ignominiously suspendded -was none other than -than the singing of sacred hymns!!

Really, had I not seen this announced in more than one journal, and seen it repeated, too, I would have supposed that it was the invention of some malignant enemy of God's truth—or a piece of good-humored irony, after the fashion of Charwari or Punch / But the internal evidence was too strong to enable me to believe that it could be either. Oh, no; it seemed to be a grave, veritable fact.

Ah, well, thought I with myself, next, whatever may have been the motive, object, or end of the Ecclesiastical Censors, I can see what may probably turn out, under the over-ruling Providence of God to be the final cause or ultimate end of this ecclesiastical sentence of condemnation. One of the greatest foes of "pure religion and undefiled "-of brotherly kindness and charity-of the Unity of the Church Catholic and Communion of Saints—is bigotry—narrow-brained, narrow-hearted bigotry. Well, in its blind infatuation, it has been permitted to launch its thunderbolt * * * * on purpose to raise such a storm of indignation as will tear it to shivers, and cause it to be buried amid "the wreck of things that

Such, in my humble judgment, will be found, sooner or later, to be the final cause or ultimate end, as overruled by Providence, of this most unique and all but unparalleled case of ecclesiastical suspension On the vexed question of Psalm-singing versus Hymn-singing, I have neither time nor heart to enter at any length: nor, had I time and heart for it, is there any occasion for my doing so. There are two extremes on the subject, both of which I think, and always have thought, ought to be avoided. Individuals, congregations and Churches there are, that will sing nothing but Psalms, meaning by Psalms, the collection in the Old Testament, ordina-Psalms, the collection in the Old Testament, ordinarily known as "the Psalms of David," because David was the principal composer of them.

There are on the other hand individuals congrewas the principal composer of them.

There are, on the other hand, individuals, congreLodi, Wis., Aug. 27, 1888.

gations and churches, in this country (England) that seem to sing nothing but Hymns-meaning by homns, sacred odes or songs, composed by men imbued by the Spirit of God, such as the Wesleys, Cowpers, &c

Now, in my humble, but clear and honest judgment, both of these parties rob themselves of an inestimable privilege—the one by never singing Psalms, the other, by never singing Hymns. I would myself, be always ready to sing either the one or the other, according to time place and circumstance—suitableness to the frame of mind, or adaptedness to the special occasion. But, while claiming this liberty and privilege for myself, I would cheerfully concede the same liberty and privilege to these extremists. The case is one pre-eminently demanding a practical application of the memorable Apos-tolic exhortation, "Let every one be persuaded in his own mind"—and be fully allowed to act accord-

As a treasury of praise and thanksgiving, and a record of infinitely varied religious experiences, nothing, nothing is comparable to the Psalms of David. Rather than forego the use of them, I would be prepared to submit to any sacrifice.

As bringing out more explicitly and more fully, in the light of the New Testament economy and of Evangelical experience, the grand fundamental truths connected with Redemption through the blood and righteousness of our adored Immanuel, and sanctifi-cation by the grace of the Holy Spirit, there are many Hymns that are altogether invaluable. Rather than forego the use of these, I would also be prepared to submit to almost any sacrifice.

My own impression has always been, that the right thing for all our Churches to do. would be this, viz.: for each Church, out of the vast mass of existing hymns,-in Germany, amounting to literally tens of thousands,-to select a certain number-a few scores or a few hundreds, as the case might be-of such as it could set its imprimatur or seal upon, as being sound in doctrine and sentiment, according to its own views and interpretation of Holy Scripture. Then publish these in a volume along with the Psalms of David, which ought ever to be put in the forefront as "given by Inspiration of God"—saying in substance, "The Psalms of David need no authorization from us, in order to be sung by individuals or congregations; they have already the impress of God's Holy Spirit. The Hymns, here selected, being compos d by uninspired men, yet men, for the most part, full of faith and the Holy Ghost, we do not direct or order to be sung either by individuals or congregations; we only state that, having carefully examined them, we find them to be, in our judgment, scripturally sound in doctrine and sentiment, and such, therefore, as may be safely and profitably sung by individuals or congregations who may be inclined or disposed to do so "

What would be more reasonable, more equitable, more tolerant than a decision like this? It is, in point of fact, what the Church of Scotland did many years ago, when it appended Paraphrases, which are just Hymns, to the Psalms; and did not order, but simply authorized them to be sung by individuals or congregations who chose to do so. This seems to me the right way of solving and settling the whole vexed question.

A Church or ecclesisatical body may prohibit hymns from being sung; but such prohibition is not wise. So long as men's soul's are spiritually languid, it does not signify much; they will not trouble themselves much about the singing of Psalms or Hymns, or singing anything at all. But let the fountains of the great deep of old Nature be broken up in men's souls, as under the earth-quake heavings of a mighty revival, and the spiritual institutes let loose and in-tensified, will find for themselves vent in sacred song; and cannot be restricted to Old Testament Psalms, however incalculably precious in their own place. Under the flow and current of spiritual energy, the prose of Scripture will often be used as a chant; prayer will often become a sort of chant; the glow and fervor of inward feeling diffusing a radiance over all surrounding objects, and the visible manifestations of grace in the awakened and converted—all, all will be turned into matter-often it may be extemporaneously-of sacred song. Under the stir and gush of spiritual movement and excitement, let a hymnist only strike up such a simple ode, with accompanying tune, as that which begins with the familiar words, "Nearer my God to thee"—and I venture to say that the stiffest, the sternest, and the most exclusive Psalmist would, in splte of himself, his preferences and antece lent convictions, be carried along with the tide of "grave, sweet melody,"—and almost unconsciously, contribute his own quota to swell

Has not something of all this been actually experienced in most of your great American revivals? It was assuredly so in the time of the Reformation, which was the greatest revival of religion, not only in modern times, but since the day of the mighty Pentecostal effusion.

Luther began his amazing career by singing hymns as a boy; he also composed hymns of his own in riper years, which are still sung in the Protestant Churches of Germany; and of these hymns it has been asserted, as an historical fact, that they carried the precious truths of God's inspired word to many hearts which would never have been reached by ponderous tomes of theology. But Luther was also a great singer of Psalms; and the 46th will ever be known as Luther's favorite Psalm.

And we may rest assured, that, whether there be revivals or not amongst us, people will sing hymns of some kind, whether Churches grant them liberty to do so, or otherwise. And if they will not be wisely directed by ecclesiastical rulers to hymns that are spiritually sound in doctrine, as well as in the expression of evangelical feeling and experience, they will often, in their ignorance, carelessness or folly, choose hymns for themselves, which may be very unsound in doctrine, as well as in expression of religious experience; and the singing of which, therefore, may do no good, but much harm. Such are briefly my own views on the subject. And rather than abandon them, I would cheerfully stand by your side, and be rebuked by any or all of the ecclesiastical conclaves of Christendom. I remain, dearly beloved friend,

Yours very affectionately. ALEXANDER DUFF.

THE EARNINGS OF THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD, from its Way or Local Business only, during the year ending June 30th 1868, amounted to over

Are Entirely Secure,

The Union Pacific Bonds run thirty years, are for $1,000 each, and, have coupons attached. They bear annual interest, payable on the first days of January and July at the Company's office in the City of New York, at the rate of six per cent. in gold. The principal is payable in gold at maturity. The price is 102, and at the present rate of gold, they pay a liberal income on their cost. A very important consideration in determining the value of these bonds is the length of time they have to run.

It is well known that a long bond always commands a much higher price than a short one. It is safe to assume that during the next thirty years, the rate of interest in the United States will decline as it has done in Europe, and we have a right to expect that such six per cent. securities as these will be held at as high a premium as those of this Government, which in 1857, were bought in at from 20 to 23 per cent. above par. The export demand alone may produce this result and as the issue of a private corporation, they are beyond the reach of political action. The Company believe that these Bonds, at the present rate, are the cheapest security in the market, and the right to advance the price at any time is reserved. Subscriptions will be received in
