HAPPY DAYS AT FERN BANK, by Emma Marshall, is one of the most delightful of stories for little girls. It teaches the evils of pride, even in little people, and yet the pictures of the sin and its cure are set in a most agreeable framework of narrative and description. 16mo. pp. 232

HENRY HOYT has published as one of his "Sunday School Series," a French story called, "Louis Michaud, or The Little French Protestant." The hero is an orphan boy, imbued with Protestant principles and thrown among Romish relatives, upon whom he is dependent. His modesty, faithfulness and quiet zeal for the truth produce very happy results upon his associates. 16mo. pp. 174. Illustrated.

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM, is a very elegant unique little volume in glazed paper covers, seasonably issued by the American's Tract Society, N. Y. Each page is decorated with the likeness of a star, in the centre of which is some significant group of figures or single individual, illustrative of the hymn or poem accompanying, and printed a verse on each page. The poetry is excellent and the whole workmanship is delicate and beautiful and a credit to the Society and its workmen.

If one wishes to see to what lengths men who still remain in the Episcopal Church can go, in the repudiation of Reformation principles, and how much nearer they feel to Romanism and to the Greek Church than to the Protestant, he need but read Dr. FERDINAND C. EWER'S Seimons on the FAILURE OF PROTESTANTISM AND ON CATHOLICITY, lately preached in Christ Church, New York, and issued as a thick pamphlet, by D. Appleton & Co. He teaches that "the inevitable logical result of Protestantism is rational ism," and, though we have not followed him out fully enough to see, would account for the rationalism of bishops and divines in his own church from the leaven of Protestantism it contains. So he accounts for the rationalism of Germany, but how of that of France? The discourses are able, ingenious, and have this much of truth, that Christianity itself in none of its branches has yet accomplished the tithe of what it is designed to

PAMPHLETS AND PERIODICALS.

MORAL FORCES MOVING THE WORLD, is the title of the Thanksgiving Sermon preached by Rev. J. W. Wood, pastor, in the First Church of Allertown, Pa., and published by the request of Thomas C. Brainerd and others. It is a vigorous statement and defence of the great principles of moral progress which have so blessed America and the world during the last few years.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for January, commences Vol. 23d. T. W. Higginson commences a Serial Romance, "Malbone," Bayard Taylor furnishes a Poem, not without merit, on "The Sunshine of the Gods;" also, one of his admirable descriptive pieces on out of the way places in Europe, "In the Teutoberger Forest"; a capital story, "The Good Natured Pendulum," is told by one who knows just how to do it, E. E. Hale; James Russell Lowell has a Poem, only moderate in quality for him: "The Flying Dutchman," also a prose piece in his best vein, and yet on a topic on which we think there is a growing indifference in this country, "On a Certain Con-descension in Foreigners;" "Co-operative Housekeeping" is in its 3rd paper and is well worthy attention from embarrassed housewives. The First of a Series on 'Consumption in America.' promises something calculated to do no small good to our people. Mr. Parton does not do full justice to himself in 'The Mean Yankees at Home,' although he is very readable and at the last quite spicy. Of course he is supercilious in tone towards evangelical religion. It is such raw and ill-considered remarks as he is guilty of on this subject, in part of the article, that forbid our cordial commendation of the ATLANTIC to our renders. 'After Election by Whittier,' is the only good poem. There is also an historical sketch of 'Gnadenhutten' by W. D. Howells, a good 'chatty piece of boyish autobiography by O. W. Holmes, an article by E. P. Whipple, on 'the Significance of the Republican Triumph' and the usual book notices.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS FOR JANUARY is quite admirable, and with the Prospectus promises very well for 1869. Gardening for Girls; Mrs. Agassiz's Articles on Geology; Declamations; Acting Charades, full page pictures &c., are among the good things promised.

THE GALAXY FOR JANUARY contains some fine specimens of magazine writing, but Mr. Benson's Article "On Some New York Journalists," intended no doubt as a specimen of the dashing elegance which seems to be the standard of magazine writers, is certainly overdone. There is a very wide variety in the articles, and we have at the end "The Galaxy Supplement," four chapters of a story by Mrs. Edwards called "Susan Field-oct.22" ing." New York: Sheldon & Co.

MESSRS. B. B. RUSSELL & Co., have issued a very interesting large Christmas engraving entitled, The Babe of Bethlehem. The Child's face is one of much beauty. Boston.

GOLDEN HOURS, a Magazine for Boys and Girls, is a new enterprize beginning with January, It is issued by Hitchcock & Walden of Cincinnati, and Carlton & Lanahan, N. Y. Price $2. with numerous illustrations.

An immense amount of valuable statistical information will be found in the OLD FRANKLIN ALMANAC for 1869, published by A. Winch 505 Chestnut St. The price is 20 cents and is well spent in purchasing it. LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE ofor January 1869

Musical Doings.—Since Mr. Horace Waters gave up publishing sheet music he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issued a catalogue of his new in. struments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival plane houses, probably overlook a modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before Expositions and the "honors" connected therewith were ever thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' piano-fortes now in our residence (where it has stood for years,) of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet. proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet-toned and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as several celebrated pinnists, have per-formed on the said piano, and all pronounced it a superior and first-class instrument. Stronger indorsement we could not give.—[Home Journal.
