BEHREND CENTER—Pennsylvania State University

Council Representatives Meet At Behrend

Sophomores Plan Sixth Annual Homecoming

On the weekend of November 12-13, once more the alumni of Behrend Center will invade our campus to take part in the sports, games and usual good times that mean Homecoming time is here again.

The sophomore class will handle the week end for our visitors and students now in attendance. Invitations have been issued to the Alumni of the seven years of Behrend's existence as a Penn State Center.

The guests are expected to arrive on Saturday afternoon to participate in the basketball games, a traditional aspect of homecoming; the sophs have planned a banquet for all who wish to attend and any guests they might bring. The price for the banquet is $1.75 per person.

The alumni dance, climax to the fun, will start at about 8:00 in Erie Hall. The theme will be a fall scene this year, and the price has been set at 50c a person, or 75c a couple.

Committees have been selected by the sophs and their sponsor, Mr. Baker, instructor in math in physics. These groups will plan and co-ordinate the activities for Behrend Center's Homecoming Week End.

Students Journey To Penn State

By Jack Rimp

On November 6, a number of students will journey to State, to take in the game between Penn State and Holy Cross. This excursion, under the sponsorship of Mr. Hughes, district representative of Penn State, promises to be full of fun. A few of the students who plan to attend this game are: Jane Eisenberg, Jo Ann Haumesser, Charlotte Flack, Mary Ann Jackson, John Mallory, Willie Storer, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gornall, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson.

A special feature of the half time activities will be a presentation of a number of district bands around the State College area, plus the State band and the Holy Cross organization. If the game itself does not draw a great number of Behrend students, surely the presentation of these musical organizations should interest some music minded individuals.

The Behrend Center seats will be reserved between the 30-40 yard lines. Be sure to sit in this section if you go. Cars and drivers will be needed for the trip, so get that co-operative spirit going and help your fellow students. Mr. Hughes plans to leave at eight a. m. on Saturday, November 6.

Chorus Selects Varied Scores

A Behrend Center choral group has recently been formed to accommodate those students who wish to participate in singing for various functions at the Center. Mr. William Hover, instructor of music and language, will act as the group's advisor, and will direct the musical selections. This chorus meets each Monday at 7:00 p.m. in the memorial room.

Rather than elect a body of officers to head the chorus, the students decided to select a chairman and four assistants to aid Mr. Hover. One of the dormitory girls will be chosen to fulfill the duties of social director.

The choral group has started working on "Falling In Love With Love" by Rogers & Hart, "Now Let The Heavens Adore Thee" by Bach, "Prayer of Thanksgiving" a Norwegian folk tune, and "In The Still Of The Night" by Cole Porter.

The chorus still needs basses and tenors to complete the voice ranges. Membership is open to anyone who would like to join.

The chorus also expects to prepare a program for the Christmas service that is held at the Wintergreen Gorge Cemetery.

Mr. Lane Names Fall Play Cast

The cast for "Night Must Fall," the play that the Dramatics Club is presenting on November 17, 18, and 19 in Erie Hall, has been chosen. The people who are hard at work getting the production in shape are: Diane Fagan, Olivia; Fran Vidil, Mrs. Bramson; Willie Storer, Hubert Laurie; Paul Harper, Inspector Belsize; Fran Nielsen, Mrs. Terence; Sue Lockley, Dora Parkoe; Pat Stocker, Nurse Libby; and Jack Rimp, Danny.

The play, under the direction of Mr. Ben Lane, instructor of English and German, is a British melo-drama written by playwright Emlyn Williams. Williams created the role of Danny, the bellboy in the production, on the New York stage.

Besides the cast, technical crews are already organized. Crew heads are as follows: Jim Culberston, technical director; Donna Cramer, stage manager; Jody Borkowski, scene designer; Dot Kaliszewski, wardrobe; Blaine Smith, sound; Jack Murray, Clem McClusky, and Elton Himes, lighting; Charlotte Flack, house manager; Ray Metz, and Janie Brown, business; Joe Schmitt, publicity; and Bob Heater, props.

A miniature scale model of the set, complete with furniture and draperies was designed and constructed by Jody Borkowski, Dot Kaliszewski, and Jack Rimp. This model will greatly facilitate the choice of colors and materials for the actual stage setting.

Committee Sends Invitations

The student council committee, that is in charge of the junior college conference to be held at Behrend, is busy attending to last minute details concerning the meeting. They are left to right, above: Herb Hanson, Norma Michael, Bill Loell, Jack Mallory, Sally Stauffer, and Charlotte Flack.

Science Club Elects Officers

The Science Club of Behrend Center held its initial meeting of the year on Tuesday, October 12. The club, whose advisors are Mr. Balmer, assistant professor of chemistry, and Mr. Shields, instructor of botany and zoology, plans to promote interest in all branches of science. Field trips, movies, and assemblies are part of their tentative program.

Officers have already been selected. Tom Green will act as president; Fred Forbes will be the vice president; Janet Evans will assume the duties of recording secretary; and Dick Russell will take the office of treasurer.

Some of those in attendance at the first meeting were John Olson, Bonnie Champney, Marilyn De Marsh, Bob Heater, Nat Kobasa, Charlotte Flack, Dot Maxwell, Bill Loell, Chuck Agnew, Jan Jackson, Gerry Guzik, Gary Stultz, Ron Thomas, Diane Harris, Norma Michael, Sylvia Haise, Phil Hazen, Venice Ceccacci, Ronald Cionco, Peggy Duff, and Bob Maracci.

On Friday night, October 22, the Science Club was invited to attend a meeting of the American Chemical Association at the General Electric Community House. A number of interested members attended this meeting and reported that they got a great deal of benefit from it.

The club hopes to receive many more invitations from interested associations who enjoy having members of high school and college groups sit in on their conferences and meetings. The students can glean much information from these other organizations, if they are concerned enough with the advancement of their own knowledge to attend and listen.

Bridge Players Improve Skill

By Jan Jackson

The Behrend Center Contract Bridge players have found an energetic and helpful sponsor in Mr. Gordon Baker, instructor of math and physics. This group, in spite of the difficult time they had in securing a legal meeting place, now has enough members to make three complete tables of players. They gather each Tuesday evening, and the sessions last from 7:30 until 9:30.

The object of this contract bridge club is to allow those who have a knowledge of the universal game to become better players, and to instruct those who wish to learn the whys and wherefores of this popular pastime.

Members include Mr. Baker, Janie Eisenberg, Becky and Mary Ann Jackson, John DiPasquale, Earl Schriver, Carolyn Lucas, John Olsen, and Joni Haumesser.

Welcome

The editors of the Nittany Cub would like to take this opportunity to welcome the representatives of the student councils of the other Penn State Centers and Junior Colleges of Pennsylvania, to Erie and Behrend Center. We sincerely hope that your visit here will be profitable and enjoyable.

We have looked forward to this convention, as a chance to "show off" our campus to students of other Centers. We are proud of it, and hope that you will return to your schools with many pleasant memories of Behrend.

Junior Colleges Compare Notes On Programs

A special event this week end, the annual council conference, will take place here at Behrend Center. This conference will be attended by representatives of most of the Pennsylvania State University Centers and Junior Colleges and promises to be an impressive session. It will allow the different colleges to compare notes on their programs of student government, social activities, and sports tournament. With this in mind, the convention provides an opportunity for Pennsylvania State University Centers and other colleges to evaluate their progress.

A long week end is planned for the benefit of the representatives who will arrive at Behrend on Friday evening, October 29, and will remain here until Sunday afternoon, October 31. Among those attending the conference are Vernon R. Leftwich, Paul Eicholtz, George Shrumberger, and Robert Evans of the York Center; John Sicak, John Mizak, James Hawk, and Roger Weltman, of the McKeesport Center; Roberta Brown, Charles Espenlaub, Ben Winslow, and Dick Sheteron, of the Altoona Center; Harold Fowler, Ken Smith, David Weaver, Kay Leitzinger, Betty Tresize, Tom Walker, and Mrs. Caccese, advisor, of the Du-Bois Center.

The program will start Saturday and include two lecture sessions—one in the morning and one in the afternoon—which will give the student representatives an opportunity to discuss their problems. Suggestions that will aid student activities in the various schools will also be represented. Between the two sessions, a tour of the Behrend campus will be taken. At six o'clock on Saturday evening all representatives who have taken part in the conference shall attend a banquet which will be held in the dining room of the administration building.

A dance at Erie Hall, from 9 to 12, will end the planned program on Saturday. Music will be furnished by Joe Comi's band. The decorations in Erie Hall will be conducive to the autumn season and, naturally, a Hallowe'en spirit will prevail. There will be no admission charge. This invitation to dance is extended not only to all those who attend the conference from the Centers, but to Behrend Students as well.

The entire event is under the direction of Mr. Balmer, assistant professor of chemistry, and the committee that was selected by Behrend's student council. Mr. Shields, and Mr. Patterson, advisors to the student council of Behrend Center, will also assist in welcoming the representatives, and in making this program a successful one.
