

Behrend League Starts Season

By Charlotte Flack

On October 18, Behrend Center invaded the Perry Plaza Bowling Alleys with fourteen lanes in use. Seen on this Monday were:

... excited jumps of happiness as Janie Kennedy, Val Meals, Bobbie Johnson, Janie Brown, Pat Stocker, Nancy Hendershot, and Char Flack broke 100 ... the big "200 men"—Earl Shriver, and Bob Gornall with their cunning grins ... Jay Rolling's good luck hat ... Ralph McClintock jumping, oh so hard, to knock that last pin over. It takes more than big feet, Sir ... Val Meals traveling with the ball, bottom dollar down. There are easier methods of getting a strike, Val ... Bill Schweitzer's wheeling around so he wouldn't see that ten pin he missed ... Tom Green's and Pat Stocker's southpaw curve ... huge average jumps for Bill Maeder, Jody Borkowski, Reid Yaple, Bill Schweitzer, and Bob Gornall; some as high as twenty points more ... The look on Jody Borkowski's face when she bowled 152, and Susie Lockley's victory clap of 133 ... and lastly, the hill billy yells of the Girard Dodds.

All in all, for 35 cents a game, you can have a wonderful time bowling, even though you do roll a few gutter balls. Excuse me, they are not gutter balls, but Blaine Smith boulevard balls.

Compy's Cuties

By Diane Fagan

What's this we hear about the gals doing exercises in the parking lot? Because of the warm weather, Compy brought the girls outside to do their exercises. For an hour they were grunting and groaning to take off the inches gained by the good food here at Behrend.

Each time class is held, the girls weigh in and out and record their weight. Something must be going wrong! The gals weigh more after exercises than before. Frannie Nielsen, we told you not to eat that apple.

Basketball usually follows exercises. Volleyball and other team sports will make up some of the other activities as the season progresses. The gals are already practicing hard to beat the alumni in the basketball game during homecoming. Those who signed up to play are: Charlotte Flack, Pat Stocker, Nancy Johnston, Valerie Meals, Bobbie Johnson, Sylvia Haise, Rosalia Hibbard, JoAnn Black, Marge Elliott, Ardelle Johnson, Fran Vidil, Nancy Hendershot, Lib Guerin, Frannie Nielsen, JoAnn Haumesser, Pat Metzger, Norma Michael, Jamie Jackson.

The ceiling of the student lounge was being plastered, so the girls couldn't go through their exercises. They felt so bad about it! (?)

The group also picked the style of gym suit for this year from four new styles. The gym suits are really cute and different. The gals will wear white blouses and blue shorts.

Calling all Robin Hoods! Calling all Robin Hoods! The targets are set up for archery, and horses are available for riding. The tennis courts are open, but snow is

Ups and Downs Of Bowling

What pessimists these bowlers are! A 7-10 split should not cause that much anguish to the people above. They are left to right: Kermit Gleason, Mr. Fryer, speech clinic instructor, Pat Lentz, Sally Mulcahy, and Carl Bretz.

The athletic program is moving ahead at a great pace here at Behrend Center.

Each Monday finds most of the students at the bowling alleys in the Perry Plaza. Not only the students are there, but our faculty is well represented, both in number and ability. A few of the students along with a faculty member had a picture in one of the local papers. The honored group consisted of Mr. Patterson, instructor of Math, Ernie Kittka, Nancy Hendershot, Dot Maxwell, Shirley McCauley, and Janie Kennedy.

The bowling league averages and scores are being posted weekly on the bulletin board in the class room building, along with the list of team standings.

The swimming season was still open at the beginning of this past week, as far as some of the kids were concerned. Perhaps it was the warm weather we had before the "flood" that served to bring out the desire to go swimming. At any rate, William Storer, Don Catlin, Nat Kobasa, John Olson, Diane Fagan, Chuck Agnew, and Roberta Johnson were all splashing around in the pool. This particular group had a picture taken that was printed in the paper at the same time as that of the other on its way, so it's now or never.

A new procedure has started this year. Instead of the girls' having to carry their clothes all over the building to find a place to park their stuff, they can now check it in at the basket room. Martha Mulligan and Lois Owen are on hand to take good care of the valuables.

So, girls, if you've been hobbling around the campus with sore muscles and an aching back, cheer up! As a happy note to end this column, just picture the nice curves and the slim figures you'll be sporting by spring.

Although two or three dates have been set for the basketball games of the Behrend squad, the schedule is still incomplete. The team has been practicing diligently and faithfully for the beginning of the season. Though the Center is not a large school, let's all get behind our team and give them the support that is so necessary to winning games. We can't all be athletes, but we can all get out and cheer the team on.

The touch football teams in the phys. ed. classes are having quite a workout. You can hear them huffing and puffing for miles when they start back from the playing field.

Ping Pong is still "the" sport at Behrend. It is a rare day indeed when all the tables are not constantly in use. The only thing, is, that the paddles are taking a beating. Let's try and keep them in one piece.

All in all the sports program is haping up nicely. Let's keep it going that way, and all get behind Mr. Simon, men's phys. ed. instructor, in his efforts to make our stay here an interesting and entertaining one, as well as an educational one from the academic standpoint.

Many Activities Highlight Halloween

Since Halloween is but a few days away, people are preparing themselves for the usual question of "trick or treat?" Halloween is observed every year on the 31 of October. The occasion is usually given over to mischief and entertainments of a hilarious nature. Weird costumes and masks are the most outstanding symbols of the Eve.

Long years ago, the pagan celebrated Halloween (which literally means "Holy Eve") in the honor of the good and the evil spirits. Decorations for the event such as colored figures of cats, witches, and ghosts, added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Today, Halloween has no religious motive behind it. Costume parties, parades, and dances are held by the adults, while youngsters ring doorbells all evening (and many evenings before and after) for their tricks or treats.

In Erie, a Mummer's parade is held annually a few nights before Halloween, and Behrend Center has been asked by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to enter a float in the colorful procession. Mr. Robert Baker's advisee group will sponsor the float in the parade on Friday evening, October 29.

The boys who are preparing the project are: Jim Hendershot, Jack Klinehamer, Ken Legenzoff, Norm

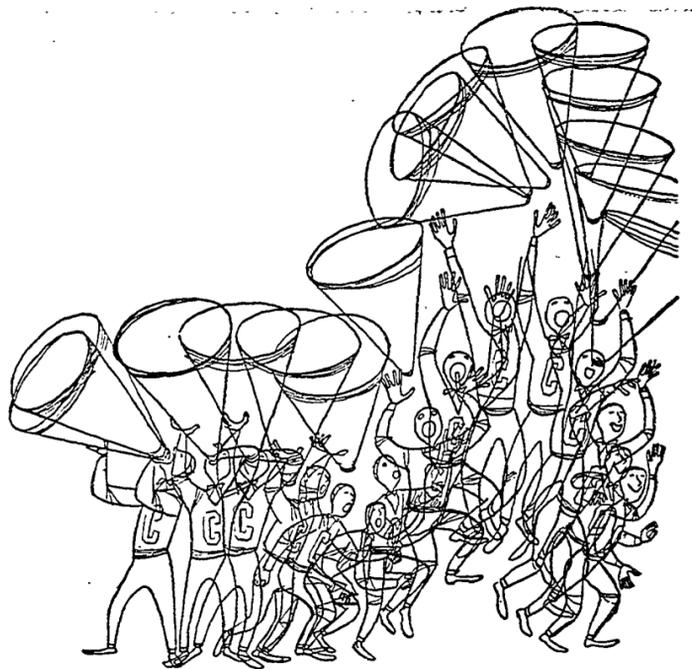

Lewis, Ed McIntyre, Al Arment, Jack Curll, Gary Dunsmore, Phil Orlosky, Ken Rearick, Harold Shcock, Bill Seley, Bob Shield, and Duane Stephens.

Behrend students will also observe Halloween by holding a dance on the night of Saturday, October 30. This dance will be based on the traditional theme and will be considered part of the activities of the council conference that is to be held here on that day, but all students are invited.

Hallowe'en?

At first glance, it looks as though Martha Mulligan is trying to find a suitable costume for Halloween, but she is really modeling her father's long red underwear.
