Give Them A Hand!

Have you heard the news? Our lounge has had a re-decorating job! The students themselves did it voluntarily and were willing to do it without pay!

Upon entering we find a wall-to-wall rug of candy wrappers, empty cigarette packages, and cigarette butts, hand-crafted jointly by Jack Stompout, Joe Fliptop, and Mary Crushabutt. Adorning the various nooks and corners are Coke and milk bottles, painstakingly placed by John Jerk and Jane Yogart. On the bridge-playing table is an attractive center piece, the garbage bag left by Matilda Plottrash after she finished her lunch. There are also traveling decorations: the many propped-up feet on the back of the lounging chairs.

We would like to thank these unselfish individuals who have given so generously of their time to make the Erie Hall lounge an attractive meeting place.

MUTT AND JEFF

Personality Parade

Even though our personality hasn't had an opportunity to kill buffalo, he can sure "shoot the bull". You can find him actively engaged in this sport at Jazz Club parties or in the cafeteria during his free hours on campus.

After leaving East High where he was competitive swimming and water polo star, he went to work for a year at Hammermill. Now enrolled as a 4th semester sophomore, much of his class time is spent with Mr. Vigorito, as he is a student in business administration.

This active boy is a member of bowling team No. 1 and intermural basketball. Recently he served as chairman of the games and prizes committee for the Mardi Gras.

He is a whizz at the bridge table, and lets his favorite partner, a blond sophomore girl, know when she makes a mistake.

He is especially fond of the Kingston Trio and Johnny Mathis and rates sneezing as one of his greatest pleasures.

Our personality is famous for possessing the talent to be able to put anything over on anyone. Recently he sold an air-conditioning unit to an Eskimo.

One of his nicknames is "lover", although it has lost its conotation in the past year since he has become attached to one girl, his bridge partner.

If you are still in doubt as to who our personality is just ask any sophomore if they remember a speech entitled "Shave and a Hair-cut."

GENERAL CLUBLICITY

LITERARY CLUB

The Literary Club, just started this semester, has become a very active organization. Twenty-six of the members went to the Erie Playhouse recently to see "Sunrise at Campobello." After the play, Newell Tarrant, director of the Playhouse, took the group on a tour around the building. On March 13, a meeting was held at Grace Davies' home at which time each member's favorite poem was read and discussed. New members are welcome and urged to attend the meetings held during the Common Hour.

RED CROSS

On March 13, members of Behrend's Red Cross joined several local colleges in an Intercollegiate Variety Show held at St. Joseph's Home for Children in Erie. Among those who participated were Richard McCabe, who did some magic tricks; Beverly Britt, who presented a dramatic act; Jim Higgins, Ed Mandel, and Jay Krimmel, who sang for the group; and Jim Altman, who was the emcee of the show.

The next campus meeting will be held on March 24 during the Common Hour to discuss the club's program for the semester. Anyone who is interested in joining the club may attend this meeting.

ALPHA PHI

The Alpha Phi Omega, Behrend's first fraternity, has an active program for this semester. A few of the social activities planned are a semi-formal dance, to be held in the near future, and a Hawaiian beach party towards the end of the semester. Some of their spring projects consist of cleaning the swimming pool and cleaning up the garden behind the library. Of course, there will be a party after each of these projects. Business meetings are held every other week during the Common Hour in Room 101. As all pledges have not yet been received, there is still time for new pledges to join.

JAZZ CLUB

The Jazz Club, with a membership of sixty-two, held a meeting on March 3 in the AV Room. Jack Raeder gave a talk on hard school and modern progressive jazz. It was announced that membership cards would be given to each member who attends two on-campus meetings. This semester's officers are Skip Knestrick, president; Beverly Britt, secretary; Don Shelly, treasurer; and Jack Raeder, who was appointed to give lectures based on the various schools of jazz. Anyone who would like to borrow any of the sixteen records purchased by the club, may do so as they are available in the library for students use.
