Commencement Exercises June 11 For Associate Degree Students

Associate Degree Commencement Exercises at the Pennsylvania State University will be held in the new Beaver Stadium at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday, June 11.

If the weather does not permit the program to be held in the stadium, three exercises will be held at 10:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., and 3:30 p. m. in the Recreation Building.

The three exercises will be necessary because there are nearly 2,900 candidates for degrees, a record number. Three programs will enable each graduate to obtain four tickets for guests desiring to attend the indoor exercises. If the program is held in Beaver Stadium, there will be no limitation to the number of guests that may be invited by each of the graduates. Tickets will be issued with the caps and gowns.

It was pointed out that while Beaver Stadium program will permit an unlimited number of guests to attend and will enable the entire class to receive diplomas at the same ceremony, there may be inconveniences resulting from parking limitations and construction in the area. Guests will be required to park on the ROTC drill field north of Wagner Building, because parking will not be available in June adjacent to the stadium. Some may have to utilize parking facilities nearer to the central campus area. A ten-foot sidewalk leading to the stadium is now under construction and is expected to be completed by June. It will facilitate walking from parking areas to the stadium.

On Friday, June 10, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., a reception is to be held for Associate Degree graduates and their parents in the main lounge of the Hetzel Union Building. The reception, of course, has been set up primarily for those persons who will arrive at University Park the evening before Commencement.

Jimmy Shea's Orchestra Will Play In A South Seas Setting

Tonight, May 20, from 9 'til 1 a tropic moon will shine over "Bali Hai". Along with cool breezes will float the music of Jimmy Shea and his orchestra to the dancing couples. Erie Hall will be transformed into an enchanted South Sea isle by Bonnie Campbell and her decoration committee. The refreshment committee is headed by Nancy McCabe, while Jim Higgins and Co. are in charge of tickets. Katie Johnson and fellow artists are providing publicity posters and Al Wnuk and crew will be pushing brooms the following day.

Behrend Briefs

Those students who have not picked up their authorization to enroll cards from the office are asked to get them as soon as possible.

A maximum enrollment is expected for Behrend next year. Approximately 250 freshmen will attend and 75 to 100 students will return as sophomores. Transferring students amount to 115.

Those who participated in the Behrend production of "Out of the Frying Pan" are to be commended on their fine acting. Attendance for the three performances surpassed that of previous years. Also, this year's financial intake was greater than that of other years.

Yearbook Payments Due Now

Yearbook payments are due now, and must be paid if you want to receive a yearbook.

Katie Johnson, editor-in-chief, reports that the yearbooks will be out in September.

Tickets for $4.25 may be purchased from any Student Council member. Favors for both the coed and her date will be received at the door. Last year the girls were given Penn State bracelets and the boys, Penn State tie clasps. No one, outside of the Student Council, knows what the favors for this year will be, but a rumor just off the vine says they're really sharp.

At intermission a local Behrend girl will be crowned queen and her escort will be king. The two runners-up in the voting, which took place May 19, will be maids-of-honor. Mike Mulligan is in charge of the flowers for the queen and attendants. Bonnie Campbell and Katie Johnson are in charge of making a crown.

The dance is semi formal; this includes anything from formals to dressy dresses for the girls, and tuxedo to suits for the boys.

The prom will be the last organized social function at Behrend this semester. So let's all go to have fun and to say farewell to our friends and fellow classmates with whom we have shared a memorable year.

Swimming Pool Regulations

We have a splendid pool but maintaining it properly is such a job that Mr. Campbell is constantly threatening "to fill it with rocks." Help prevent this disaster by obeying all the rules.

1. Never swim alone.
2. Never run around the end of the pool, or try to push others in.
3. Never throw anything in the pool or leave clothing, bottles, or garbage in the pool area.
