

TRUE CONFESSIONS:

We Moved the Library (and)

By Edward Paauwe

As most of you know, the library was moved to Turnbull Hall during the Christmas vacation. The moving was mainly done by Rolland Schearer, Robert Howell, and myself. The first day we came out to work was a Monday, and the rest of the week we were not able to work because of the snow. So on our supposedly free Saturday afternoon we came out and hauled books.

The job would not have been so bad if it were not for the fact that the hill we had to go up was rather slippery. If you have ever tried to carry a heavy box of books up a slippery hill, you know what I mean. But we had fun, and we even learned how to drink tea. Then, after we got rid of all the books we started on the magazines, and finally we moved the records. Remember the steep narrow steps in the old library? No one fell down them. Have you ever tried to dust 6,000 books. Believe me, it's a lot of dust.

We received the greatest amount of satisfaction from seeing the new library grow even though growth was only a few books at a time. But after we had moved all the reference books, we all commented on how beautiful the bright red of the Encyclopedia Americana looked.

The high point of our moving came after the job was finished and all of the books, magazines, and records were carried over, for we then picked up Miss Schumacher and carried her bodily to Turnbull Hall, thus completing the job.

Miss Schumacher On Expansion:

When I arrived at Behrend Campus in 1958, the library contained 3,500 volumes. Seating capacity was limited to thirty-six, with tables and chairs arranged (of necessity) so close together that it was almost impossible to get to the shelves to examine a book. Now the library in Turnbull Hall provides seating for seventy-two individuals, adequate lighting, a book collection numbering 6,000 volumes, and room for expansion to 10,000 volumes.

It is most satisfying to see the end result of the plant for this library which we started last year. I am most pleased with this move into larger quarters because it reflects the constant desire on the part of the Pennsylvania State University to expand its facilities. Penn State tries to live up to Thomas Carlyle's quotation inscribed on the entrance to Pattee Library at University Park—"The true university of these days is a collection of books."

BUSINESS WOMEN TO SELL PLATES

Mrs. Helen Adams, secretary to Mr. Irvin H. Kochel, would like to remind students and faculty members that she is selling commemorative plates from the Erie Winter Carnival. These plates are being sold by the Erie Business and Professional Women's Club to help defray expenses of the carnival.

Cost of the souvenirs, which depicts various scenes and activities from the Erie Winter Carnival, is $2.00.

The plates are also being sold at several Erie stores. Among these are: Both Trask's stores, Laver's florists, Schluroff Floral Co., Grants in the Liberty Plaza, Scotts in the Erie Mall, the Union Bank, Security Peoples Trust Company, Brown and Jones Drug stores, and Kraus' Department Store.

Behrend Students Prep For Winter Activities

Now that the novelty has begun to wear off the Winter Term with its biting winds and snow, Behrendites are once again settling into their own personal ruts and beginning to make plans for an active social season. Thus, many eyes are starting to turn to (No, not thoughts of love as in Spring) but Behrend's own Winter Carnival.

While the inquisitive peering of said eyes might prove slightly embarrassing if left unrestrained the progress being made by the various clubs and organizations in regards to their plans for Carnival

Day move smoothly ahead. At this writing all kinds of rumors have been heard such as freezing the soccer field for skating and the possibility of having the ski tow completed although a few lonely souls have been seen digging huge holes in the frozen hillside. Also, definite plans are now being made for the SGA dance "Winter Carnival 1963", which will be held Saturday, February 2nd from 9:00 to 12:00. There is also the possibility of a bake sale which will be held in Erie Hall by members of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, (Alka-Seltzer will also be furnished at a slight additional fee.

The beginnings of goodly sized beards are now cropping up on many a face around campus and it should prove interesting to find out who will have the most outstanding beard on Behrend. Why not join in the fun and grow one yourself, they help keep those chins warm too! (Sorry girls, but this is one time you'll have to take a back seat to the boys.) Prizes will be given to he who cultivates the best beard at the Valentines Day Dance to be held on the 15th of February.

Expensive Conversion

With change-overs nearly completed on the Behrend Campus, total costs have risen to an impressive $42,000, it was reported last week by assistant director Thomas E. Campbell.

The entire amount was spent for alteration and equipment in Turnbull Hall.

Alteration made up the biggest expense, amounting to $30,000 for both the library and the cafeteria.

New shelving, tables, and chairs in the library added $7,000 to the final bill. New equipment in the cafeteria totaled $5,000. This included the cost of both kitchen and chairs in the dining area.

Dave Manning has already begun practicing for the Winter Carnival. Many students have been making good use of the hill behind the O.F.B.S.B. for skiing, tobogganing, and sled-riding during the past two weeks.

J. T. Miller Joins Behrend English Staff

Among the new faces at Behrend Campus this term is that of Mr. J. T. Miller, instructor of English 3. Mr. Miller was born in Pottstown, Pennsylvania, and it was there that he was graduated from high school. After serving two years in the army, Mr. Miller started his college education at

J. T. Miller

Scyracuse University and then transferred to Penn State. Upon graduation from Penn State, Mr. Miller began work on his master's degree at the University of Washington. In addition to teaching English 3, Mr. Miller is now finishing his graduate work at Penn State and hopes to receive his master's degree in March.

The Millers, now living in Lawrence Park, have been married for six years and are expecting their first child in April.

When asked if he liked Behrend, Mr. Miller replied, "Yes, very much . . . I want to blend into the surroundings."

We are glad that you like Behrend, Mr. Miller, and along with welcoming you to the campus, we hope that your teaching experiences here will be enjoyable ones.

Dorm Rules Posted

The start of the second term has brought additions and changes in the dorm. The cafeteria has been moved to Turnbull Hall, and in its place is a laundry room with a stove and a refrigerator. The girls also have a quiet study area outside the laundry room. The old dining room has been replaced by a lounge, which is to be furnished with new green, brown, and orange furniture that has not yet arrived. The lounge affords a place where dorm girls can play bridge or listen to records.

The following rules concerning the new lounge have been posted.

"Male students will not be permitted in the dormitory lounge before 5:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Male students may call for girls and escort them back to the dormitory after 5:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

"Loitering by male students will not be permitted at the dorm after 5:00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

"On Saturday and Sunday, male students may visit with girls in the dormitory lounge at any time until 1:00 a.m. Sunday morning and until 11:00 p.m. Sunday night.

"NOTE: This is a dormitory lounge and at no time should it be regarded as a general student lounge. Students using this lounge should govern themselves accordingly. Behavior at all times should be that of ladies and gentlemen."

Get Me To The Church . . .

I'm gettin' married in the morning!
Ding, dong the bells are gonna' chime!
Pull out the stopper!
Let's 'ave a whopper!
But get me to the church on time!

Only because the judge was a family man with sixteen little ones at home did Coach make it to the church on time.

And chances are he will deny all but the essential climax to this story. But the evidence is still within reach: in that little storeroom—where he keeps all of his basketballs—are the books that dismayed him early that night before his astonishing revelry. But he's already added another volume to his collection: it's a little play entitled My Fair Lady.
