BEHREND PLAYERS PRESENT SEASON'S FIRST

Famous Jazz Quintet Entertains Students

The students of Behrend Campus, as well as the general public of Erie, were treated to a fine jazz concert by the DON KREBS QUINTET Monday, Nov. 9, 1964. This program was presented by the Pennsylvania State University Commonwealth Campuses Series.

The program was educational as well as entertaining. Mr. Krebs explained the three main factors to music and had each member play his respective part. The lighting system that was in use added much to the show. The amplifying system projected the sound in such a way that it seemed to be coming from all sides at the same time.

The members of the DON KREBS QUINTET and the instruments are: Don Krebs, vibes; Tyson Brown, alto sax; Ken Kuhn drums; Bob Streeter, piano; Angelo Arcadipane, bass, and the vocalist, Miss Harriet Richardson.

The DON KREBS QUINTET is Central Pennsylvania's finest and most professional jazz ensemble. It was formed in 1953. For the past three years, five State University staff members have given much of their time and effort to the formation of a musical organization which is dedicated to playing the most advanced music from the pens of America's leading contemporary composers. In presenting the DON KREBS QUINTET in concert, the Commonwealth Campuses Artists Series offers the Penn State student body, an opportunity to hear the finest jazz music this generation has created.

Considering the dearth of coherent music to be found on AM radio and network TV, this concert series venture is particularly creditable, and reflects the depth of interest which the University has in the cultural growth of the individual student. The warmth and vitality which the individual members of the DON KREBS QUINTET bring to their instruments adds to the lustre of their performance and makes the musical experience a very real and human affair.

Parents' Day Held

The annual Parents' Day program at the Behrend Campus was observed Sunday, Nov. 8, with some 450 to 500 persons visiting the Campus.

An informal reception in Erie Hall at 2:00 gave parents and students an opportunity to meet with Behrend Campus Director Irvin Kochel, Dean Benjamin Lane, and members of the faculty. At this time parents could make appointments for further discussion on students' progress in particular courses, mid-term grades, and suggestions for improvement. Refreshments were later served.

The Behrend Players will present an evening of experimental theatre entitled Five by Six Friday evening, Nov. 20, in Erie Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Each of the five one-act plays satirizes a facet of our modern society and, at the same time, parodies a well-known playwright. The first three productions, written by Russell M. Whaley, are concerned with the eternal triangle as viewed by Michael Chekhov, Noel Coward, and Eugene O'Neill. Appearing in these short plays will be Jo Ann Zechman, John Penfield, Jayne Scrudders, Steve Fine, Eve Moretini, and Bill Frazier.

Steve Fine, Bill Frazier, and Eve Noretini will also be seen in a parody examination of the styles of Arthur Miller. This play also serves as a sly dig at the relationship between parents and children.

The final production of the evening is The Land of Counterpane by Patrick Healy and pokes innocent fun at the theatre, motion pictures, children, fairy tales, and James M. Barrie. Appearing in the cast will be John Penfield, Jo Ann Zechman, Bill Frazier, and Jayne Scrudders. As the production is experimental in nature, admission is free and the public is invited to attend. Following the presentation a brief coffee hour will be held.

Penn State Committees Hold Joint Conferences

The Fall Term Meeting of the Organization of Student Government Association (OSGA), the Press Association of Commonwealth Campuses (PACC) and the Keystone Society held coalescent conferences Nov. 6 and 7 at DuBois Campus.

Tom Bundy, SGA president, and Bill Harding, vice-president, attended the SGA conference and discussed the possibilities of a Commission System, an All-University Day and the changing of the OSGA calendar.

The main objective of an All-University Day would be to unite the students of commonwealth campuses at University Park in order to participate in an activity such as football which would be followed by dinner and a dance.

The proposed Commission System would consist of a president, vice-president and three regional coordinators. Each campus would be responsible for different topics and other campuses could obtain information by contacting the commission.

A bill dealing with changing the set-up of the OSGA conferences was written and introduced by Tom Bundy. The proposed bill would make the summer conference for carryover SGA members only instead of the present policy of including potential SGA freshmen. The fall conference, as proposed by the bill, would then include the newly elected freshmen and orientate them to the policies of the SGA as adopted during the summer. Also suggested was that the Fall conference be held for three days during the Christmas break.

Carol Baier, editor of the Nittany Cub, took part in the PACC conference and discussed the role of a newspaper on a college campus and the specific proposals for the commonwealth campus newspaper. An evaluation of the individual campus newspapers was conducted by John D. Vario, PACC advisor and assistant professor of Journalism.

PACC members were informed that on Nov. 3, 1964, the Committee on Student Organizations and the Administration's Committee on Student Affairs approved the PACC charter and that it is now recognized by the University.
