

CAMPUS CAPERS

(Cont'd. from page 4)

Hiya! Sure hope the snow hasn't left you stranded...Intercampus league tournament proved once more that Behrend is best all-around...PSU says thanks for making their Jammy the greatest!... What's this about Behrend girls not being friendly? Huh, fellas?...Lot of old friendships were renewed at ICLT... What Gannon Irishman likes to play dodge-em?...Guess how many students the new ping-pong table will hold?... Ski weekend is dangerously near. Wonder how many broken bones will appear Monday...What's this about Ron and Barney writing the sports column for the Erie papers? Or is it just that their names are easier to spell...All kidding aside, basketball team is really great. Next seven games are away--let's support our boys, okey?... Cindy really enjoyed looking at her mouth (microscope-like)...You say you looked at an air bubble for ten minutes and wondered why Mr. W. gave you a funny look?...Thanks, Circle K for making Winter Carnival semi-formal. Sounds too great!...Don't forget to buy your 1966 yearbook. It promises to be the bestest!!...Ginny hates spaghetti... What renowned SGA member eats Dum-Dums during the meetings?...Pierced and pierced-less ears are becoming fab... Basketball Barney wants me to remind you that Underdog is on Saturday at 11 ...Common hour programs are interesting How about supporting them?... "Would you believe" Gene?...Joe has the cutest teddy-bear smile--right, Joe?...Don't forget this weekend's B.B. games-- McKeesport on Friday, and Johnstown on Saturday... Paul "Gypsy Rover" Phillips was camp...Steve said he'll turn down his pant's cuffs and "come formal" to the Winter Carnival dance...Gotta go--see you next week!

THE END 007

Ask Bill Bundy about work before breakfast...Ask Pam Plasha about the Phyllis Diller boots.

Man from Spectre

nature of God, especially since people tend to humanize God by talking about the hand of God or the Eye of God. But about the best answer would be to quote scripture and say, "God is a Spirit." God is a personalized spirit."

Gae Baker: "If God is personalized as you say, must a person go to church to worship God?"

Schweikert: "One wouldn't have to, but if one believes in God, church should be a privilege."

Steve Fine: "What is a religious person? Don't we sometimes act as our own gods?"

Schweikert: "American ideals of self-reliance sometimes cause this."

Gae Baker: "I have difficulty accepting Christ because He seems so inhuman. How can we accept the pregnancy of a 15-year-old girl who was not even mature?"

Schweikert: "We must accept Christ as divine. But Christ's physical entry into the world is not really essential to the faith."

Jim Michali: "What bothers me is that the church is ideally a group of believers, but I think most churchgoers don't really believe!"

Ruth Brown: "Perhaps they don't believe, but many of them want to believe."

Schweikert: "Yes, there may be more seekers than devout people."

Carol De Arment: "It seems that the church is often for the simple people. The harder we think about religion, the more confused we become, until it is only the dull unquestioning minds who accept everything."

Schweikert: "Yes, but until we experience death, we can't know anything by any way but faith."

"It's good to have youth with enough vigor to criticize," remarked Schweikert. But he warned against throwing out the old religion until one finds a replacement.

Another meeting of the Skeptic's Corner is planned for February 3, during Common Hour. Other Erie area pastors will be invited, and all Behrend students are urged to come armed with questions.