

CAMPUS CAPERS

Hiya gang! Happy Lincoln's Birthday! Now that mid-terms are over, there are only five more weeks til finals! Encouraging, isn't it? . . . Basketball team is in the hundreds again! Only four more games, so let's help our fab players hit quadruplet hundreds! . . . Congrats to Mr. Grove and Sue Lancaster for their great performances in The Country Girl . . . Help our Behrend -- give pledges to the building fund beginning Monday . . . Have you seen Mr. Clean? . . . According to an English 3 scholar, "Time is the epitome of Howdy Doody." . . . Dee is the real hero of Ski Weekend . . . Good luck to Gail in the Campus Cover Girl Contest . . . Winter Carnival is this weekend! Don't forget: Friday - picnic, Saturday - skiing, snowball fights, and the dance, Sunday - ice skating. Everything, especially the dance, should be super. Good luck to all candidates for Queen of Winter Carnival . . . You say you got a D-minor on the music mid-term? . . . Kathy Rutkowski bakes great pies . . . Nights of Cabiria was good . . . Look for the blue bullfrog . . . Ask Mr. Christopher about the golden-age concentration camps . . . Bob Michaels has a new calendar . . . If PSU is the "girlie organization" then Circle K must be the boyie organization. Right, fellas? . . . The model U. N. delegation is delegating . . . Girls' P. E. classes have written a book: How to Ruin a Strike in Two Spastic Frames. . . Seems like the man from Spectre has arrived. OO7 challenges Spectre to the following question. If he answers properly, we will have a duel. If not, ---- Here goes -- Who reads Sports Illustrated in the library, fifth period, on February 1? . . . Remember that the final payment on the yearbook is due at Spring Registration . . . Have fun at the Winter Carnival, and . . . Wonder how sweet Valentine's Day will be . . . Gobta go! . . . See ya next week . . .

THEEND
OO7

ODE TO A ZOO. 12 ASCARIS

Oh, little worm so limp, sedate,
Who doomed you to this horrid fate?
To cut you up I surely hate.

Yet, here you're pinned on waxen tray,
Oblivious of night and day.
You didn't even get your say.

The razor now begins its trail.
Why must you be so limp and pale?
Please, little worm, don't make me fail!

The going is a little rough.
Your skin is thin, but rather tough.
Oh, Doctor Smith, ain't this enough?

And now the deed is almost done.
I can not say it has been fun.
It hasn't.

-- Ruth Brown

NARCOTICS COMMITTEE

The Pennsylvania State University has established a committee to look into the possible use of narcotics by students.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. Champ R. Storch, assistant dean of men, was established because of reports from metropolitan areas that use of narcotics by college and university students was growing.

Establishment of the committee is a precautionary measure, Dean Storch said, and is an outgrowth of a meeting called by the University on January 12 when city, state, and federal law enforcement agencies briefed University representatives on the narcotics situation.

Members of the committee include personnel from the office of the Deans of Men and Women, the Department of Security, Department of Sociology, Ritenour Health Center, Undergraduate Student Government, and the State College Police Department.