THE CARRADINES

March 11, Friday evening, at 8 P.M. in Erie Hall, the Carradines will re-enact famous scenes from history and great drama. Under the supervision of Edward Wright, the husband and wife team portray dramatic moments in the life of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, Anne Boleyn and Henry VIII, Queen Elizabeth and Lord Essex, and Joan of Arc and Charles, the French dauphin.

The Carradines are a husband and wife team of brilliant actors who portray scenes from great plays. Richard Carradine is the son of the famous actor John Carradine. Richard is considered by many to be one of the most brilliant young actors in the United States today. Early in his teens he prepared for such roles as Hamlet, and Romeo under the eminent actress Constance Collier, John Barrymore's leading lady in "Hamlet." In the past ten years he has appeared in such major roles as Clarence, in "Richard III," Iago, in "Othello," Romeo, in "Romeo and Juliet," and Richard, in "Richard III."

Jaclyn Lord, his wife, was graduated from the University of Colorado where she majored in speech and drama. Later she attended the Goodman Memorial Theatre to prepare for the stage. After graduation from Goodman, she portrayed Juliet for the Playwright's Shakespearean Company. In the past few years she has appeared as a leading ingenue in some of the country's finest stock companies.

A full house is expected to watch the Carradines perform in Erie Hall, so come early to assure your chance of getting a seat.

GLIMPSES IN A GALLERY

The Behrend Readers will present their winter term program, "Glimpses in a Gallery," at 10:50 A.M., Thursday, March 10, 1966.

Listeners will be conducted on a tour of a "picture exhibition" consisting of literary scenes and poems. The program creates numerous moods by drawing on literature as diverse as Robert Frost's "Maple" and Edmund Rostand's hilarious "Nose Speech," from Cyrano de Bergerac.

The program will be as follows:

The Girl's Banana	Anonymous
