OPEN HOUSE

An Open House will be held on Behrend Campus on Sunday, April 24, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Parents of students and anyone interested in a tour of the campus are urged to attend. All the buildings on campus will be open to allow everyone attending to see the facilities. Also the plans for the new buildings will be displayed in the Administration Building lobby.

In the library over 50 volumes of all books published by the University Press will be on display. Along with the books, four recordings will be exhibited.

All laboratories in the Otto F. Behrend Science Building will be open for inspection by the visitors. Each laboratory will have a faculty member ready to greet the public. Possibly a few demonstrations will be performed in the laboratories. The Keystone and Circle K clubs have offered to furnish guides and parking lot attendants for the affair.

In Room 101 of the Science Building, a movie entitled "This is Penn State" will be shown. Coffee and tea will be served in the cafeteria.

NESS NIGHT

"Ness Night? What the heck is Ness Night?"

This is a question that most of the students have been asking lately. It has been said by many to be one of the most colorful events of the school year.

Picture yourself driving into campus with a pin-striped suit, black shirt, white tie, and shoulder holster. You are met at the entrance, where a road block has been set up, by a couple of Eliot Ness' security guards. Your car has been thoroughly inspected and you are given permission to enter the campus and participate in the various games of chance. Entering Erie Hall, you approach the ticket counter where you pick up some spending money and register your weapon. The wheels are spinning, the dice are rolling, and the cards are hot; you are ready to match wits with one of the swiftest gambling casinos this side of the Mississippi. For the sharpshooters in the crowd, there's a booth to test your skill and try to obtain one of the prizes offered.

During the course of the evening a loud shot is heard, and minutes later you're engaged in a battle against crime. Al Capone's gang has moved in! One of the guards in your organization has been killed. He is laid in a casket and picked up by a hearse which carries him to the Erie Hall Funeral Home, where services are held.

Among the other highlights of the evening are auction and a dance, with a prize being offered for the best costume.

Sound impossible? No, it happens every year at Behrend. So get your grandparents to dig out that old "Roaring 20's" outfit from the closet and come to the campus on May 6. You'll be in for a fun-filled and long-remembered experience.
