

S.G.A. MOVES

The Nittany Cub editors disagree, but some say that the Student Government Association is the most vital organization on Behrend Campus.

The fifteen elected members who serve as a liaison between students, faculty, and administration have a minimum cumulative average of 2.0.

S.G.A. charters clubs, appropriates money to campus organizations, appoints the editors of the newspaper, yearbook, and student handbook. It controls pool and ping-pong equipment, and was responsible for new traffic and cafeteria regulations.

President Bob Michaels, vice-president Jeff Disend, and representative John Schuller are spring carry-over members who were formerly elected by the student body.

Students may obtain applications from the S.G.A. office in Erie Hall. Campaign speeches are scheduled for Common Hour, Thursday, October 20, and elections will take place the following day.

INTRODUCING the KEYSTONE SOCIETY

The Keystone Society's three members, Jan Puzar, Carol De Arment, and Jeff Disend, as well as adviser Ernest Fryer welcome Freshmen to the Behrend Campus.

The Society, a statewide honorary organization recognized throughout the University, exists, as the constitution says, "to stimulate interest and participation in student activities at the Commonwealth Campuses, to encourage academic pursuit, and to provide for the recognition of the 'all-around' student at these campuses.

Any regular undergraduate student who has completed one full term of study, who has attained a cumulative average of 2.50 or better; who has no published disciplinary measure, and who has participated in an organized student activity may be invited to join the Society.

Keystone and Organization of Student Government Associations co-sponsor All-University Day, which is a recreation day for Commonwealth students to visit Penn State. Watch for further publicity.

READERS RE-READ WELL-RECEIVED READABLE READINGS

The Behrend Readers' Spring program, "Glimpses in a Gallery," has been re-vamped into an Orientation Week program featuring Sue Lancaster, Carol De Arment, Gail Holmstrom, and George Miller.

Sue reads "The Silent Miaow" with spunk, Carol reads William Saroyan's "An Old-Fashioned Romance" with humor, and Gail reads Robert Frost's "Maple" with soul. Making his debut is sophomore George Miller.

Mrs. Nyla Falkenhagen teaches the Readers to make the best use of tone, pitch, and vocal expression, so that they can demonstrate the story and mood.

Selection of new Readers is based on an audition in which versatility is shown through a prepared reading.

The Behrend Readers made an excellent name for themselves at the Penn State Spring Reading Festival. They have worked hard to produce an excellent program for the Freshmen Orientation Week.
