Penn's Pittman Eating 'em Up

(University Park, Pa.)

If he ever gobbles up real estate like he gobbles up football yardage, Penn State's Charlie Pittman will end up a land baron.

As a real estate and insurance major at Penn State, the fleet footed halfback spent most of last summer working as an apprentice in his home state of Maryland as a part of his requirements for graduation.

He says he devoted most of his time to selling insurance and very little to real estate, but you'll have a hard time convincing the Midshipmen of Navy.

The way he played football last Saturday it looked like he not only owned the stadium but all of Annapolis and Maryland as well, especially that choice piece of land known as the end zone.

Pittman had the greatest day of his career, gaining 176 yards in 19 carries and scoring two touchdowns, one on a spectacular 58-yard spring.

The 45-22 triumph over Navy was Penn State's 20th straight game without defeat.

For Pittman it was as much a personal victory as a team conquest. Among the goals he has set for himself are: to help Penn State go undefeated for the second straight year, to gain more than 1,000 yards and to surpass his record of 14 touchdowns of last year.

"If I can do that I'll be completely satisfied," he told reporters after the Navy game.

Ironically, among the 28,796 fans to witness the game at Navy was Lenny Moore, whose touchdown record Pittman broke last year.

Pittman has often been compared to Moore and even wears the same number (24) that Lenny wore as a Baltimore Colt.

"You do your thing, I did mine," Moore told Pittman Saturday. "You're bigger than me. There's no sense comparing things."

The Nittany Lions got a big lift from sophomore running backs Lydell Mitchell and Franco Harris and Pittman talked about their effect on his recuperation from leg and ankle problems.

"You heal a whole lot faster when you have competition like we have on this team," he said. Unfortunately, Charlie injured

Malkin, Stoner Added to Staff

As the number of students increases, so must the faculty. In the physical education department, the Behrend Campus has added two new faces. They are those of Mr. Martin Malkin and Mr. Clarence Stoner.

Mr. Malkin is replacing Mr. Roger Sweeting who has taken a leave of absence to further his studies, as the basketball coach. Coach Malkin feels that it won't be easy for him to match last year's undefeated record. He was born and raised in New York City and received his Master's degree at Brooklyn College. He played basketball while in school and in various leagues after graduation. He then taught tennis and coached basketball in public schools before coming to Behrend.

Basketball season will begin with the first game on November 25. Tryouts and practice will commence on October 15.

Mr. Stoner, the new baseball coach, is an alumnus of Penn State. While at University Park he played varsity baseball three out of four undergraduate years. After receiving his Bachelor's degree, he played in the minor league with the Oakland Athletics for 2 years. Then he returned to Penn State for graduate work and he will now be teaching physical education and be heading the baseball department at Behrend.

The Nittany Cub would like to welcome the new coaches and wish them the best of luck during the coming year.

his knee again in the first play of the game against Colorado. However, the Lions proved they aren't a one man team by rolling through with a 27-3 victory, maintaining their undefeated record.
