taken into account. Whether this requires a new constitution or a new structure, I don't know, but I think it would be a good idea if the present S.G.A. would take this into consideration, and we might be able to get somewhere in spring term."

The loss of Phil Hood as first vice-president last term, appears to have been a great blow to S.G.A. according to the general consensus of those polled. John Musala remarked, "I would say that the loss of Phil Hood has hampered S.G.A. There isn't anybody who will ever replace Phil Hood."

Al Quinlan noted, "The loss of Phil Hood has hurt the student body and S.G.A., perhaps not legislatively, but morally. It has just about killed the student body this year, because he was really our only leader, and it will not be noticed as much in S.G.A. as in the student body."

Mr. Woerner said that, "Phil was a very competent vice-president," but went on to say, however, "I think that there are a lot of other competent people in S.G.A."

The impressions that those members interviewed held on the Executive Committee was many and varied. Jim Crawford said, "I think that the members of the Executive Committee have done an excellent job."

However, Linda Shorey, herself a member of the Executive Committee said, "The Executive Committee is not acting as an Executive Committee." Her claim was supported by Dave Carr who noted that, "several meetings were held, but nothing was accomplished and they were discontinued. Right now there are not enough members of the Committee to hold the meetings."

When questioned about the work of the Student Government Association in the past, most of those questioned seemed to think that the visitation issue was the single most important thing that S.G.A. had been involved in so far this year. However, Dave Carr, S.G.A. president, noted that visitation was not the only thing that S.G.A. had been involved in. He listed the extension in hours for the library, the grill, and the Reed Union Building. Though, he also remarked that, "since the visitation fiasco, things have pretty well ground to a halt."

Linda Shorey noted that S.G.A. had put a lot of work into visitation and "it didn't get them anywhere."

The administration brought some remarks from many of those interviewed. Al Quinlan said, "I think that the S.G.A. is basically a token gesture by the administration. It is a student government, but it has no power whatsoever." He went on to say, "Dean Lane and Mr. Kochel will come to speak to us and double talk us right into the ground, and no one knows what is going on because we can't get answers from these men; we should be able to talk to them truthfully instead of looking up to them like our father."

The future of S.G.A., according to those interviewed, appeared to be pretty much up in the air. Most however, seemed to agree that much will depend on the Spring Elections, which are to be held on May 13 and 14.

Jim Crawford said, "I think that the spring elections will go well. Meaning that in this academic year, there has been more emphasis on student leadership, and I think that it might bring out a few more leaders than followers."

Most of those interviewed didn't know what it would take to get S.G.A. moving again. Linda Juliano said, "It will take another big incident like visitation or last year with the teachers to get S.G.A. moving."

Linda Shorey noted that S.G.A., "needs a new image; students at Behrend think that S.G.A. does nothing," and went on to add, "it needs to become more actively involved with the students."

A note for the future was injected by Al Quinlan when he said, "We have to get the student body educated as to what is going on because of the last couple weeks the students have lost hope and you can't have that because that is what the administration wants, a beaten student body. We have to be aware of what is going on. I think everyone should make an attempt to do this..."

The Musical "Zorba" Opens At The Warner

Zorba is a musical about life... and how to live it fully. Set in the hills of Greece, Zorba is the story of an introverted, intellectual young Athenian, Nikos, who learns the joys and pains of life under the tutelage of the passionate, virile old Greek, Zorba. At the finale, Nikos, independently takes the first hesitant steps of the dance - the dance of life - in an attempt to know the grandeur of an abundant life.

The heartwarming musical

Zorba has been lauded by New York Times critic Clive Turns as "The best musical to be seen on Broadway since Fiddler on the Roof" and acclaimed by John Chapman of the Daily News as "an unforgettable evening" of entertainment.

Zorba will be playing on the stage of the Warner Theatre on May 12, 1971. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. or Mrs. Flaherty by Monday of that week.

Talk of sex discrimination may fill the air and stimulate thought in the minds of about 60 women who will be on campus for the second annual Commonwealth Campus Women's Residence Council Convention.

According to Sandy Kasko, chairman of the event, many of the speakers for the convention, which will be held from April 23 until April 25, will deal with the role of today's woman.

"Sex Discrimination at Penn State" will be the topic of Dr. Jane McCormick, assistant to the Vice-President of Student Affairs at Penn State, in her talk on Saturday. Also featured on Saturday will be Betty Senor, instructor of journalism at Shenango Valley, who will talk on communications and a surprise speaker who is a Communist member of Women's Liberation.

Besides speeches and talks the girls from Mont Alto, Beaver, Dubois, McKeesport, Altoona, Fayette, and Behrend will be treated to small discussion groups for the exchange of ideas, the Cwens Fashion Show-Coffee House, Las Vegas Night, a banquet, possibly, breakfast at the beach.

All of the convention is designed for the exchange of ideas between the representatives of each campus. And, as was stated by WRC President Krystal Angevine, it is hoped that the event will promote better relations between the administration and the student body.

"The New Morality" Will Be Discussed

Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall, eminent international psychologist and behavioral scientist, will speak before Behrend audiences on April 13, 1971 at 8 p.m. in the RUB Lecture Hall, free charge. His lecture, entitled "The New Morality" deals with family life, marriage, and premarital sex. His humanist approach to today's moral standards helps to explain interpersonal relationships as a framework for value judgements and decision making in human relations situations. Dr. Kirkendall explores the causes and effects of the "New Morality" which has evolved during the past two decades, with special emphasis on its effect on college students.

Dr. Kirkendall is a Professor of Family Life Education at Oregon State University. He has taught at the Teacher's College of Connecticut, and the University of Oklahoma, and served in the U.S. Office of Education and as Director of the Association for Family Living in Chicago. He has published his study of premarital sexual behavior in his book Premarital Intercourse and Interpersonal Relationships along with numerous other books, pamphlets and treatises.

Brown's wife stated that the families of the six jurors have been threatened and harassed since the conviction.

A group of prominent French women admitted to having abortions, which are illegal in France, in a statement aimed at legalizing abortions.

A few of the signers of the petition were actresses Jeanne Moreau and Catherine Deneuve, and the author of "The Second Sex", Simone de Beauvoir.

One speaking for the group stated that they planned to put up wall posters and to offer legal assistance to all trials involving abortions.

AFL-CIO construction unions stated that they have no legal way to fight President Nixon's plan of wage stabilization, but that unions should serve on the White House stabilization committee.

Last week Nixon issued the plan, which is generally designed to limit wage hikes to six per cent a year. This plan is expected to have an effect on stopping price increases in the industry. According to the Labor Department, construction wages rose more than eighteen last year.

Jesus Christ "Superstar"

by Patsy Wheatley
CUB Staffwriter

Because of his love for the world, a middle-aged man gave up his life not too long ago. On the surface this may seem like any other casualty, but then are some differences. Hundreds of men do give up their lives everyday, but they are not usually over 30. They also don't do it out of love for anything, especially not the world. What's more - this happening was not an accident.

This man suffered as much as the younger victims do. Not only did he endure pain while dying, he also wasn't given a fancy funeral. The enemy even divided up his possessions after they had sent him on the way to death.

Personality-wise, this man was like none who existed before or after. Although there may have been some false accusations against him, he never did anything wrong. His greatest accomplishment was to give his life as part of a mission for an all-powerful being to benefit mankind. What could be wrong with that? Three days after his death, an astonishing thing happened. It was extremely difficult to understand. This was the resurrection of the man from the grave. That kept his friends shook up for quite awhile.

The wonder of that event should still be shaking up the world. The man was Christ. He died for the peoples' sins so that they could be free from permanent death. Yet, because He was the Son of God, He had victory that is celebrated on Easter.

Easter, like many words, has become meaningless to many recently. Yet, if the world is going to make a celebration out of Easter they must realize that Christ does ask for a belief in Him. That seems to be the least that a world can do in return for a world of love.
