Behrend beat Ashtabula Kent, 5-1-opening its season April 14.

Mark Lytle, in an outstanding performance for the Cubs, pitched a three-hitter and struck out eleven batters.

The predominantly freshmen line-up backed Lytle's pitching with an eight-hit attack and solid fielding. Don Hill and Don Raydo were the big hitters for Behrend as each knocked in a run with singles in the third inning giving Lytle all the runs he needed.

Terry Kestle drove in extra runs in the fifth with a single, insuring Behrend's victory.

Saturday's double-header against New Kensington Campus was rained out.

SPORTS CORNER

Two predictions of mine went down the drain this week. The Boston Bruins were dumped by the Montreal Canadians and the Knickerbockers were edged by the Baltimore Bullets. Well, now it's time for some second guessing: In the Stanley Cups it will be the Blackhawks (at least one Esposito has to make) and in the NBA Lew Alcindor will lead the Bucks to their first World Championship. I won't have to do any second guessing for my baseball prediction. Take note: Big Scoop and Ron Wasson... Philadelphia's spanking new Veterans Stadium is establishing itself as a "long ball" park. Home runs are flying out of the new field quicker than Frank Lucchesi would care to count them.
