STUDENT UNION BUILDING

What Do You Think?

Should the students be assessed to defray the cost of the Student Union Building?

A poll taken by this reporter reveals the following opinions and comments on the issue concerning the student's wanting a Student Union Building, paid for by student assessments:

Mary Ann Welkie: "No, because the students who are now here and who would help pay for it won't get any use out of it."

Joseph Neuklis: "Yes, because we need a student union building and that seems to be the only way it would be paid for."

Jean Reed: "Yes, because it would be beneficial for future students."

Rhoda Smulyan: "Yes, because we need a place where all the students can get together."

James Ditzler: "Absolutely not! There are certainly more obvious instances where money could be put to much better purposes."

Helen Novarnik: "We really need a student union building, and the only possible way we can get one is by assessing the students."

Mary Merker: "Yes, because the students need one."

Andrew Woytek: "Since everyone who pays toward it won't benefit from it, why should everyone pay for it?"

James Koren: "No, the student is burdened with too many expenses already."

Edward Hahn: "Why should the students pay for a student union building? Let the union pay for it."

Vernon Simm: "Yes, because it would be difficult to obtain money from other sources."

LIBRARY NEWS

A new reading room has been opened on the second floor of the library building and all the current issues of magazines have been moved into that room. The back issues of magazines such as "Time" and "Life" have been made available; they have been placed in separate piles according to date and stacked on the shelves. To facilitate the use of back issues, the Reader's Guide has also been placed on the shelf in the new room. If there is any article in the back issues that you are interested in, you can find it by looking in the Reader's Guide under the title of the article, the subject heading, or the name of the author.

There is a new set of Encyclopedia Americana and Encyclopedia Britannica on the shelves in the reference room.

THANKS

Special thanks to James Apple for doing errands for the Sorority hayride which was held Oct. 29.
