

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR (Cont.)

Mr. Serce:

Thank you for the moon.

Editor-in-Chief

Collegian Editor:

Would you please tell me what a UNICEF is and how I can capture one? I believe that the sorority members should not have exclusive rights to it.

Eck

Mr. Editor:

I wood like to join the Bell-Letters society? I'm afraid my E. Comp. grade is a little below the requirment, but I will try to improov. After all, trying to brung up a 19% average isnt imposable.

Roburt S.

Editor-inChief:

I want a Student Union Building! Who the hell does your writer think he is by saying that we should have a path through the woods first. If he insists on walking through the woods, I'll give him a compass and shovel and let him make his own path.

A disgusted Reader

Editor-in-Chief:

Your publication has gone to the dogs! I have been taking ROTC for 7½ years and have never before been told how to shine my shoes by a girl. As far as I'm concerned O.M. can polish apples for the professors, but I'm going to polish my own shoes my own way. After all, next year I'll have the rank of Airman First Class so I should know what I'm talking about.

Basic Cadet Himplehoof

Mr. Editor:

I have just read an article entitled "If Sputnik II Lands at Highacres" by one of your writers. Previously, the same writer tried to incite a riot by condemning the parking lot. Before that he viciously attacked what he called "Poor Campus Spirit". It is my opinion that he is a reactionary and should be locked up immediately.

Editor:

Iread your latest issue containing the inspiring article about donating blood, I have undergone many similar experiences through the years. However, your article brought back vivid memories of the time I lost my arm through blood poisoning after donating a pint of that crimson fluid. Keep up the good work.

Hildegard X.

Sir:

For the first time I enjoyed the cartoons in your scandal sheet. Especially interesting was the caricature of my nephew Boris. However, he has grown up and now attacks women instead of biting people's legs.

Dracula

Linda Lovely:

If your column is for both male and female students, please leave it out of the copies distributed to the boys. And, if that is what the females in this institution go for, we promise to have nothing to do with them. So Linda, let's get that scintillating personality of yours really scintillating and attack this problem from a different angle.

SORORITY SPONSERS TWO ACTIVITIES

Frances Werpshaw

The Theta Sigma Pi Sorority is conducting a magazine drive. The magazines that are collected will be sent to Europe. Anyone wishing to participate in this drive is invited to do so. Please bring all magazines to the girls' lounge. The deadline for this project is December 19.

The sorority will conduct a Bake Sale sometime after Thanksgiving. The proceeds will go to U.N.I.C.E.F. (childrens emergency fund.) Donations of baked goods will be greatly appreciated.

Let's make it a huge success.
