

CONFUSION CONCERNING SENIOR EXEMPTIONS FROM EXAMINATIONS

Clemson, S.C.-(I.P.)* The Student Committee for Scholastic Improvement at Clemson College has made a thorough study of the situation regarding the exemption of seniors from final examinations. A statistical summary of actions taken under similar circumstances in other colleges and universities comparable to Clemson has been compiled. The following summary was compiled from nineteen replies to 25 questionnaires sent out:

There were nine schools which did not exempt seniors, but of those, two, Ohio State University and Stanford University, had early examinations for seniors. Georgia Institute of Technology has no final examinations at all. The University of Maryland exempts all graduating seniors from finals with no requirements. Lehigh University requires an "A" average for exemption. North Carolina State College, Pennsylvania, Fordham University, and the University of Kentucky require a "B" average. Harvard University, University of Colorado and Michigan State University require a "C" average. This yields a total of nine major schools which exempt graduating seniors from final examinations.

*,*
(Editor's Note: The following column will be a regular feature of this newspaper; discounting the possibility of our columnist's assassination or dismissal. Please co-operate by being miserable and writing your problems (or complaints) to Dear Oily, C/O The Highacres Collegian Office (3rd Floor of the Main Building).

Dear Gabby; I received warning grades in the following subjects: "D" in ROTC, "D" in Drawing, "F" in English Comp. o, "F" in Math, and "F" in Chemistry. What should I do? I am a freshman.
High School Honor Student

Dear High School Honor Student;
Have you considered the teaching profession?

Dear Gabby; Whenever I meet a girl I take her home to meet Mama. Mama gives the girl an application blank to fill out. What shall I do with my Mama?
Girl-Less

Dear Girl-Less;
Steal your Mama's application blanks!
Dear Gabby; I am an ROTC Cadet, but I can't shine my shoes. (I got 3 in 1 oil all over them the first day). What should I do?
Oily Shoes

Dear Oily;
Have you ever considered becoming an officer?
UNHEARD
Prisca Stiles

In graves as silent as the night that covers them with Pluto's light Dwells Hades' Queen, Proserpine who, kneeling in her bower, prays to Venus' lover, Mars for sight of blood and strife and stare While, all about her, lovers sleep their jealous quarrels drowned in dust at Lethe's bottom all their lust and warriors who brave once were their quiet vigil sleep by her But Love and War—they turn away when the Queen of Death kneels down to pray.

NOTE ON DANCE SOON TO BE HELD
No definite announcements have been made up to the time of this printing, but it is generally known by the superior interior that a Halloween Dance will be held Friday evening, October 31. It will probably be held in the new Student Union, making it the first student event held there.